How to use this guide

Here are some pointers on how to use this guidebook effectively

Which School? for Special Needs is divided into specific sections:

1. Editorial

This includes articles, written by experts in their fields, explaining various aspects of special needs education. There are also case studies and other interesting articles.

2. Profiles

Here the schools and colleges have been given the opportunity to highlight what they feel are their best qualities in order to help you decide whether this is the right school for your child. They are presented in sections according to the needs they specialise in:

- social interaction difficulties (autism, ASC & ASP)
- emotional, behavioural and/or social difficulties.
- learning difficulties (including dyslexia/SPLD)
- sensory or physical impairment

Within these sections, schools and colleges are listed by region in alphabetical order.

3. Directory

Here you will find basic up-to-date information about every independent or non-maintained special needs school and college, and further education colleges, in England, Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales, giving contact details, size of school and which specific needs are catered for. (You will find a key to the abbreviations at the start of each directory section) The directory is divided into four sections:

- social interaction difficulties (autism, ASC & ASP)
- emotional, behavioural and/or social difficulties.
- learning difficulties (including dyslexia/SPLD)
- sensory or physical impairment

Within these sections, each establishment is listed by region in alphabetical order and those that have entries in the profiles section are cross-referenced to allow you to find further detailed information. Against each entry you will find a number of symbols indicating any SEN speciality, including an icon to indicate if the school is DfE approved.

4. Useful associations and websites

In this section we provide a list of useful organisations and websites relevant to special educational needs, which may be useful to parents looking for specific help or advice.

5. Maintained schools

Here we have included basic details of all maintained special schools in England, Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales. They are listed according to their Local Authority.

6. Index

Page numbers preceded by a D indicate a school appearing in the directory, those without will be found in the profiles section.

How to use this guide effectively

John Catt's Which School? for Special Needs can be used effectively in several ways according to the information you are looking for. For example, are you looking for:

A specific school? If you know the name of the school but are unsure of its location simply go to the index at the back of the guide where you will find all schools listed alphabetically.

A particular type of school? Both the profiles and directories are divided into sections according to the type of provision. See also the appendix on page 141, which lists specific special needs and the schools that cater for them.

A school in a certain region? Look first in the relevant directory. This will give you the basic information about the schools in each region, complete with contact details and which specific needs are catered for. More detailed information can be found in the profiles section for those schools that have chosen to include a full entry.

More information on relevant educational organisations? At the end of the directories you will find a list of useful organisations and websites relevant to special educational needs.

Please note: regional divisions

To facilitate the use of this guide, we have included the geographical region 'Central & West'. This is not an officially designated region and has been created solely for the purposes of this publication.

One final thing, below you will find a list of commonly used SEN abbreviations. This list can be found repeated at various points throughout the guide.

What a strange world we are living in at the moment

Douglas Silas, of Douglas Silas Solicitors, looks at the potential impact upon the SEN sector of the coronavirus crisis

As you read this, we may have already started to try to get back to some degree of normality, but as I write this, we are still living in a strange new world that has been taken over by the Coronavirus at the moment.

Many millions of people are now in 'lockdown' across the UK (and billions globally), aside from leaving their home to get essentials, to get their one hour a day of exercise, or because they are considered to be 'key workers' whose job is considered a critical service to our nation.

So where do children and young people with SEN stand in all of this?

Well, we are just a few weeks now into school closures and people are already getting used to home working and/or educating and amusing their school/college-age children at home. Although when school closures were announced, there was the theoretical request for some schools to remain open for children and young people who were considered 'vulnerable' (i.e. those with an Education, Health and Care (EHC) plan) or a social worker), or children of 'key workers'; practically, many children and young people with EHC plans have been kept off school by their parents for varying reasons.

These include things like: not wanting their child being exposed to further risk of contracting the virus (or bringing it into their home); because they are concerned that the 'education' received at school will only really be 'care' (and not what they actually require in their EHC plan); or that their child will just become more confused and anxious if asked to attend a different school to that which they normally do or being with a new peer group that may be different or less understanding of them than their normal friends are.

In addition, there is a great difficulty for many children and young people, especially those with SEN, in distinguishing between doing schoolwork at school and being more relaxed at home.

Also, although special schools have been asked to remain open, many have actually been closed, due to staff shortages, or because they may be in the independent/non-maintained sector that is experiencing the same or other particular difficulties, including financially.

It is very important to bear in mind that there is no legal duty on parents to try to maintain the provision in their child's EHC plan whilst they are out of school and trying to do so will be an impossible task, so parents should not feel they need to try to.

It seems to me that the best that can be achieved in these difficult times is to come up with some kind of alternative or different schedule for home-schooling that everyone can 'buy into'.

Yet, as a result of all of this, we have also seen a rapid expansion in online learning and people adapting very quickly to do things in alternative ways, many of which have been very creative; although these do not really come anywhere near the personal help and one-to-one contact, which many children and young people with SEN require on a daily basis.

There is also the general view now, even in these comparatively early days, that schools are now going to remain closed for the summer term and may not open again until September. Therefore, for those children and young people transferring between phases of their education; whether that be from primary to secondary school, secondary school to post-16 education, or those leaving post-16/19 education generally to face the world, they may have effectively been stripped of their chance to say goodbye properly to their friends.

It is very important to bear in mind that there is no legal duty on parents to try to maintain the provision in their child's EHC plan whilst they are out of school and trying to do so will be an impossible task, so parents should not feel they need to try to.

I have seen the following guidance produced for the current times, but which I think actually has a wider benefit for us all when looking to the future now when schools do reopen, which parents should probably still try to keep in mind when looking for a school for their child with SEN:

1. Keeping minds active and happy is the most important factor.
2. Work and tasks should suit the age range and capabilities of the children and expected outcomes should be flexible.
3. Variety is key and bite-sized chunks of work are more likely to be completed and could be part of a bigger project.
4. Set tasks that all pupils can complete to some degree of success, with extra and more complex or additional tasks for the most able pupils.
5. Tasks that cover different areas of the curriculum allows pupils to choose those that interest them and makes it more likely that they will complete them.
6. Post-16 learners might be able to carry out more open-ended, independent work, but structure and guidance is still needed for them.
7. Many children need a lot of guidance when working and cannot be left for long periods of time to complete complex tasks.
8. Parents might struggle to assist with schoolwork for a number of reasons - parents cannot be expected to become teachers.
9. We cannot expect pupils or parents to replicate the classroom at home.
10. Helping with gardening, cooking and washing can all be "educational".

As I say, it's a strange world we are living in at the moment, but maybe we can take away something positive for the future from this awful situation...

TO HELP
MYSELF.

We're one of the UK's leading independent providers of residential services, schools and colleges supporting people with autism and complex needs.

Our highly trained staff provide the highest quality, person-centred approach. Giving those who use our services the support, skills and tools they need to be as independent as possible.

Our unique Hesley Enhancing Lives Programme (HELP) is a big part of this.

Combining the latest techniques and practices, HELP is our successful value-based positive behaviour support programme. Based on the principles of Therapeutic Crisis Intervention which is accredited by the British Institute of Learning Disabilities, HELP reduces the need for high-risk interventions by taking an empathic and proactive approach. We focus on how our actions can positively shape the emotional well-being of all those who use our services. It's why all our staff are given HELP training to make sure it works in practice as well as theory.

Established in 1975, Hesley Group, through its schools and colleges support 8 to 25 year olds with a highly experienced and expert multidisciplinary educational, care and therapeutic staff resource, in high quality purpose built settings. We're focused on positive outcomes and progress towards sustainable independence.

Making the best school move

Finding the right school environment for a child experiencing a learning challenge, for whatever reason, can be a complex and time-consuming process, but expert help is available, writes Lorna Woolley

Looking for specialist provision

Parents may be exploring specialist provision for a child or young person for many different reasons. Clear physical limitations or a medical condition may need to be accommodated, or a child's social and emotional needs arising from autism or ADHD may be unmet in their current school.

Some parents may be concerned about a child without an exact diagnosis who nevertheless seems unable to reach their potential in the present classroom setting, perhaps because they have a 'non-standard' learning style.

Whether a child's complex needs are not being addressed or they simply need to find a learning environment which values their 'difference', the right specialist staff and resources are key to helping them reach their full potential – educationally, socially and emotionally.

Listening to independent advice

Just as an independent financial adviser (IFA) is able to search the whole market and recommend the most appropriate products without being restricted to a particular provider, an independent educational adviser is not affiliated with a particular local authority, solicitor's practice, school or group of schools.

As well as recommending suitable schools and assisting families in their decision-making, an independent adviser can also facilitate necessary assessments or tests and ensure that any SEN solicitor or other professionals involved contribute their input in a timely manner.

Collating vital evidence

There are many excellent examples of independent, non-maintained and maintained schools and colleges in the UK, but searching for the 'best fit' for a child or young person with a range of needs is a time-consuming and sometimes daunting task. Of central importance in this search is the Education, Health and Care (EHC) plan, setting out the special educational needs of a child or young person, and the evidence contained within it.

As a legally binding document the EHC plan details the provision a local authority must put in place for your child and it is key to gaining the necessary funding. Expert, professional assessments and reports – detailing what an individual will require in order to reach their potential – give schools and colleges the all-important information enabling them to decide whether or not they are the right match.

Insufficient or inaccurate evidence in an EHC plan can lead to confusion about actual needs, lack of funding from the Local Authority, not enough support for the child or young person and, ultimately, placement breakdown. In addition, in order to achieve a successful result, the plan has to be written in terms of the specific and quantifiable provision which the child 'must receive', rather than simply what they 'would benefit from'. For example, this might be a specified number of hours per week of one-to-one support from a speech and language specialist.

Timing a move

For some children, remaining at a local mainstream school, with the right support in place based on the evidence within an EHC plan, can be a good solution. But nothing will ever compare to fully embracing a specialist setting which offers bespoke provision delivered by a multidisciplinary team of dedicated professionals.

Selecting from the wide choice of schools, each focusing on particular specialties, enables your child to learn in a setting among children having similar profiles, with staff and on-site therapies tailored to meet their specific requirements.

Teaching and learning styles, as well as staff training, can be adapted to match the cohort. The professionals within these special schools and colleges have found their vocation in teaching children and young people who learn just like your son or daughter.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

Leading an effective SEND strategy in school

Edited by David Bartram OBE

Finding suitable placements after age 18/19 can often be problematic, but guidance in exploring alternatives at this stage is also available from independent advisers. The aim is to match a placement to the young person's own interests, enabling them to access appropriate vocational skills, qualifications and career guidance, while ensuring that any necessary therapies are continued.

Whenever a child or young person moves to a special school, the outcome for them should be special: as needs are met, difference is celebrated, and confidence and motivation increase, they can truly flourish.

Benefiting your family

I know from my own and my sons' experience that achieving the best school move at the right time not only transforms a child's future but brings significant benefits for the whole family.

For children and young people able to board at a special school, the opportunity of an extended waking day curriculum is also life-changing for parents, carers and siblings. Wraparound support helps professionals to guide the children and young people in their care; teaching independent living skills and the ability to manage crucial routines will maximise each child's or young person's life chances. This is the work of trained professionals and leaves parents and siblings to be just that – family.

Each school, day or boarding, is a community and alongside new peer groups and friendships for a child or young person come wider opportunities for family support groups and activities which can reduce stress and enrich family life for everyone.

Lorna Woolley MEd is an Independent Educational Adviser. Based on her teaching experience and extensive research visits to schools across the UK, she specialises in helping parents find high quality educational settings for children with additional needs.

Never excluding transforms the lives of pupils

Thomas Keaney, CEO and Schools' Proprietor of TCES Group, on the goal of delivering exceptional outcomes for exceptional pupils

Earlier in the school year independent research by Goldsmiths University of London found that TCES Group schools and services – which share a policy of never permanently excluding – have transformed the life chances of our exceptional pupils, who have complex and co-morbid SEMH needs and/or an ASC.

Researchers interviewed past pupils – 90 per cent of whom are in education, employment or training up to five years after leaving us – to get to the heart of the pupil experience.

The researchers found that: 'an emphasis on attachment, along with a diversified and differentiated curriculum, with group process at its core, allowed these young people to feel understood, to feel welcomed and to learn the social and academic skills to engage with all aspects of life more positively.'

They went on to say that TCES Group, through our inclusive philosophy of never giving up, provides 'authentic, therapeutic education at its finest', which 'is effective in transforming the lives of its pupils educationally, emotionally and socially' within our inclusive schools.

The findings were an excellent boost for our schools, services and staff, and for the families who have put their trust in us. As importantly, they pinpoint the key ingredients that have gone into the creation of our inclusive educational settings. In the foreword, our Patron Dame Esther Rantzen states, "I believe that this policy of never permanently excluding, along with other interventions could and should be used as a template for the educational sector as a whole."

The most significant ingredient, the one that cascades through everything we do, is our determination to deliver exceptional outcomes for our exceptional pupils, whether learning in school or remotely. By embedding a 'never give up' philosophy we challenge ourselves to manage, contain and respond to difficult and disruptive behaviour, rather than retaliating and/or resorting to permanent or fixed term exclusions. We know that this inclusive approach has a deep and lasting influence, contributing to our pupils' stability and security. Our pupils' cycle of previous exclusions is broken by our staff's refusal to be pushed away or to give up.

Children and young people whose previous experience of school has been one of feeling rejected or let down by adults, need to be met where they are. Every one of the pupils Goldsmiths researchers spoke to described in their own words how healthy attachments and relationships with our staff were key to unlocking their potential. Those relationships provided them with a secure base to move on from and, along with our Group Process, provided regular opportunities for pupils to practise their empathy within a safe, reciprocal relationship.

High expectations means different things for different pupils and meeting children where they are means that success for those with significant and debilitating anxiety is simply having the courage to walk into the classroom. From that point onwards we can explore their interests, their talents and create a set of leadership opportunities that allows them to build a strength-based perception of themselves.

Ofsted data released in March this year found a drop in schools rated Outstanding since the introduction of their new Framework in 2019, which puts more focus on assessing whether a school has a well-designed and ambitious curriculum with the same high ambition for all pupils.

Person-centred curricula, rooted in high expectations, is another of the key planks of our approach.

We were therefore delighted, but not overly surprised, to retain our Outstanding grading at our North West London Independent School (NWLIS). One of the ways we engage pupils at that setting is through a rich, individualised Art curriculum. Previously disruptive, violent pupils have had their overall outlook positively transformed by being supported to develop their interests and achieve subject success at both GCSE and A Level. Notably, a recent student achieved a Grade C in their Art GCSE, despite being in a place of security for most of their final year and being supported remotely by their teacher. The student was anxious to take the GCSE and do well because he didn't want to 'let his teacher down.'

Goldsmiths researchers were struck by the way that all the TCES Group alumni they interviewed had a clear sense of identity, pride and purpose, and were able to talk about who they were, and what they wanted to do in the future (their 'Journey of Change'). Within each school our L.I.F.E (Leadership Skills, Independence Skills, Future Outcomes and Empowerment or Employability or Enterprise skills) Programme provides opportunities for pupils to prepare for a successful, independent life outside of school by developing their skills and understanding in a deliberate and forensic way. At NWLIS for example, art-related work experience within industry and inviting accomplished artists into school (including those with ASC like many of our pupils) is one of the ways we encourage pupils to conceptualise ideas about first having a future (daring to dream) and secondly a future career.

For us that is our dream too. A virtuous cycle starting with leadership roles and mentoring curriculum in our primary classes, leading to levels two to four mentoring qualifications and more senior responsibilities in our secondary classes. It then ends with Traineeships and Apprenticeships in teaching and care for our graduates who return as volunteer mentors or apprentice mentors. Then finally, we have home grown talented neurodiverse employees who start the virtuous cycle again. We are working hard to introduce the same virtual cycle for the parents of our pupils.

In 2020/21 our practice will continue to develop, but our underlying approach will remain constant. SEND pupils thrive through a combination of being listened to and understood by well-trained professionals and being encouraged to have an active voice and role in their school community; through receiving support to develop their sense of identity around their strengths and their future. Under-pinning all of this has to be the knowledge that their teachers and their school will never, ever give up on them and quite simply never resort to exclusion, either permanent or fixed term.

Thomas Keaney has 30 years' experience of educating children and young people with the most complex and wide-ranging special educational needs. He is CEO and Schools' Proprietor for TCES Group, which operates two schools in London, plus a parallel service, Create, for young people with multiple overlapping and complex needs who need more intensive adult and clinical support in a range of non-school settings.

How parents and carers can manage educational transitions effectively

Parents and carers are on the frontline when it comes to managing challenging educational transitions for students with special educational needs.

Dr Vaughn Price is regularly asked to share his expertise on how parents and carers can ensure students are well equipped to handle educational progression.

Whether they are changing schools, heading to college, or moving on into the community, the Principal Clinical Psychologist at Beechwood College sets out his recommendations to support students in adjusting to this time of change.

Why educational transitions are challenging

As we are all aware, people with special educational needs can find transition between life events, or simply changes to everyday routine, especially difficult.

Educational transitions are often among the most daunting and hardest to absorb.

One of the fundamental pieces of advice I give to any parent or carer during this phase is to maintain their daily routine as closely as possible.

As we know SEN individuals value routine highly, as such monitoring and controlling this will ensure consistency, and avoid any potentially stressful, unplanned situations.

Easing the transition

During any transition three things need to be prioritised above all else – Consistent communication between all parties involved; really listening to what the young person says; and thoroughly communicating the transition process to the young person.

We all understand the value of communication in supporting people through stressful, or emotional times. When it comes to supporting someone with SEN through a potentially distressing transition, this is even more vital.

Effective communication between the student and everyone involved with the transition definitely helps to ease the process and introduce a sense of order.

Most importantly the students must see themselves as being a central part of the process and must feel fully involved and know that their voice will be heard and their wishes valued and considered.

Visual communication

During my years of work with people with SEN I have found that visual communication is actually highly effective in communicating transitions and is often the forgotten tool.

Visual information is much more easily processed in comparison to verbal information, and studies have found that 65% of verbal information is retained after three days when supported by visual aids, compared with just 10% without.

I always recommend to parents that photos, videos, and infographics can be highly effective when explaining and mapping the transition.

Know your surroundings

As with any one of us, familiarity encourages us to feel less anxious about a new situation.

The same is true for someone with special educational needs. As such I would also suggest to parents and carers to take students for as many scheduled visits as can be rearranged. Dates of visits should always be fully communicated, so they are not unexpected and the student can prepare fully.

These visits will give students the opportunity to acclimatise to their new environment, meet new people, and visualise their transition more effectively in the long run.

Additionally, they enable parents and carers to familiarise themselves with the student's new surroundings and care team and provide the appropriate support for effective transition.

Getting organised

A final suggestion I would make is to support the young person in making a transition pack to introduce a sense of organisation into the process. This pack can include maps of the new service, pictures of staff, examples of work expected, lists of new rules, and a frequently asked questions (FAQ) section.

Introducing visuals and colour-coded themes into it will simplify the process for the person and help them retain the new information more easily.

By scheduling and organising the new routine in this way, parents and carers can aid the student to achieve a sense of control and consistency, which will help to ease any anxiety.

Hugh

Hugh was previously placed within a residential setting specialising in supporting individuals with epilepsy, despite his having autism and severe LD. However, Hugh engaged in a variety of behaviours that challenged the staff team, in particular physical aggression and environmental damage which meant he was not attending formal education and they had to serve notice on his placement and he was accepted at Beechwood College.

As part of the initial transition planning, the College worked closely with his existing support team to develop a well planned and executed transition appropriate to his needs. This included periods of staff shadowing to build a working rapport; involving Hugh in the planning process and making him part of the decision-making team; concrete visual information with photographs and social stories explaining what was happening; and overnight stays prior to him moving into the College. This allowed Hugh to understand and agree with what was happening as much as possible and prepared him for the change, helping to reduce the anxiety that he would inevitably experience.

When Hugh finally moved to Beechwood he settled into College life well. Understandably he still demonstrated signs of anxiety and behaviours that challenged. However, subsequent sensory and communication assessments have allowed the College to develop personalised strategies that allow him to control his behaviours more effectively. These strategies have also been incorporated into Hugh's educational day and embedded into a curriculum designed to build Hugh's skills for future life.

Hugh is in his second year at the College and is generally happier and more relaxed and his incidents of challenging behaviour have been consistently decreasing.

Getting back to school

How the Fullerton House, of the Hesley Group, helped 'Lisa' make progress and thrive in her education

Starting at Fullerton House

Before arriving at Fullerton House School, Lisa lived in seclusion in a local respite service and hadn't attended school for 18 months. She had tried attending a number of special schools, but attendance had always been difficult for Lisa and every provision ad struggled to meet her complex needs.

Lisa arrived at Fullerton House in 2016. Her former accommodation had been extremely sparse due to high levels of property damage. On arriving at her new home at Fullerton House, Lisa significantly challenged her environment, pulling radiators off walls, ripping up carpets and destroying every light fitting. Initial attempts to introduce Lisa to school were very difficult; refusing to dress, ripping her clothes and stripping were a daily occurrence. With no formal method of communication, Lisa struggled to let those supporting her know her needs and wants; frustrated, Lisa displayed extreme levels of physical aggression were displayed towards staff.

An MDT Approach

Clearly, as a young person with autism, learning disabilities and complex needs, Lisa found engaging with the world around her very challenging. Living on her own, not accessing school or her local community, Lisa's world risked becoming smaller and smaller. The Multi-Disciplinary Team (MDT) at Fullerton House needed to develop strategies to reverse this trend as soon as possible.

The Speech and Language Therapist (SaLT) team trialled a number of approaches to support Lisa's communication e.g. PECS, GoTalk, Attention Autism, Makaton, Grid Player. Some approaches were more successful than others with daily Makaton signing sessions proving particularly successful, helping Lisa to start to develop critical communication skills. Occupational Therapy led sensory integration assessments and sessions were carried out. A box of sensory items was developed, helping Lisa to more effectively self-regulate and engage in her environments.

She has made so much progress during her time at Fullerton House that family meals with her parents to busy Italian restaurants, regular family outings including a family wedding and birthday parties, have all been possible. Obviously, the joy this has brought to Lisa, her family and all those who support her at Fullerton House is immense.

The Psychology Team had begun work with Lisa's previous respite service whilst she was still there as part of a thorough transition process; Fullerton staff shadowed her staff team at the respite service to gather key information. A functional behaviour assessment was carried out resulting in a number of recommendations and agreed strategies; the MDT worked together to ensure these were implemented across both the care and education settings. A core support team was developed that worked altered hours to ensure consistency and reduce transitions. A bespoke education package, based on Applied Behaviour Analysis (ABA), was implemented to re-integrate Lisa into the school programme. The psychology team provided extensive input and support to address her reluctance to attend school, working closely with the education team.

So how is Lisa doing now?

Lisa attends school every day and engages in her lessons. She wears her school uniform and allows her staff to plait her hair neatly; she now dresses appropriately almost all of the time. She attends community-based activities, particularly enjoying, swimming and cycling. Lisa now communicates using Makaton signing, gesture and pointing. Her staff team sign key words throughout the day with Lisa frequently signing two/three-word sentences to her staff. She will choose her lunch from symbols available at the school canteen. Previously, Lisa made very limited food choices; she is now eating a varied and healthy diet, choosing all the meals available in school and enjoying a variety of different foods at home.

With her communication needs now far better met, Lisa rarely displays aggression towards her staff. Her home environment is still relatively minimal in terms of usual furnishings, but with the huge progress made over time and property damage now minimal, more homely furniture is being trialled.

Having been unable to live within her family home for a number of years, developing good quality contact time has been really important for Lisa. She has made so much progress during her time at Fullerton House that family meals with her parents to busy Italian restaurants, regular family outings including a family wedding and birthday parties, have all been possible. Obviously, the joy this has brought to Lisa, her family and all those who support her at Fullerton House is immense.

What next?

As Lisa approaches young adulthood, the future looks much brighter for her than it did before she arrived at Fullerton House. Back to school, engaging in her learning and accessing her local community mean so many more doors are now open for her. Back in 2016, Lisa was out of school, isolated in her own home and facing the prospect of her already small world getting even smaller. Now, a range of young adult service options can be explored with confidence, knowing that the progress made so far can be built upon to give Lisa every opportunity to further explore her potential and the wider world around her.

What you can do to help your dyslexic child at home

As a parent, you want to help your child in any way you can. We spoke with the specialist Learning Support Team at Bredon School, a dyslexia friendly boarding and day school in Gloucestershire, and found out their top tips for what a parent can do at home to support their dyslexic child's education.

1. Self-esteem is key

It is important to talk to your child and help them to understand what dyslexia is. Emphasize that it does not mean that they are less intelligent. There are strong links between dyslexic children and low self-esteem. Focus on what your child is good at – praise them for effort and don't always point out mistakes. Spot the talents in your child and encourage them in all manner of pursuits; there can be a huge pressure on young people to be academically successful. Make sure they know that there are lots of different types of success; if English Literature isn't their thing, maybe they need to be reminded that they are a brilliant piano player, rugby player, puzzle solver... after all, a happy child is far more likely to achieve their full potential.

2. Focus on your child's interests

Getting your child excited about reading or writing can be far easier and more effective if the subject is something that they are interested in. Find out what your child has a passion for and use this to help with activities at home. Taking a strong interest in your child's talents will also help you to support and encourage them to pursue their goals and develop a stronger sense of self-belief.

3. Make homework fun

Let's face it – most children don't run through the front door after school, eager to sit down quietly to do their homework. This said, there are some sneaky ways in which you can bring reading and writing into everyday tasks to help your child practice. Next time you need to go shopping, ask them to help write out the shopping list; when you play a board game as a family, ask them to read the instructions out; as you are cooking dinner, get them to help by reading out instructions from the recipe...

4. Seek a school which can offer the right support

Finding the right school for your child is not easy but it is definitely up there in terms of important decisions. Firstly, look into the support that your child needs; they may need smaller class sizes or extra support outside of lessons. Some schools will also offer dyslexia friendly teaching – for example at Bredon pupils are never asked to copy down from the board and all pupils have a Google Chromebook which has helpful software already installed for them such as text-to-speech and dictation software. Visit the schools you are interested in and ask them about their support offered for dyslexic children. If they don't have a dedicated SEN (Special Educational Needs) team, or see this as a priority, move on to the next!

5. The sooner you intervene, the better

The sooner you are able to place your child in the right educational environment, the better. If a dyslexic child starts their education in a school which is unable to offer them the extra support they may need, or simply teach in a way that makes it easier for them to understand, they may develop a negative relationship with being at school. They also may not understand why they find certain tasks more difficult than others in their class, which could contribute to a lack of confidence in their own abilities.

6. Get to know your child's teachers

It is really important to develop and maintain an open dialogue with your child's school. Their teachers will see a completely different side to your child whilst they are at school and it is important that you are able to work as a team; speak with the teaching staff openly about any concerns you may have. Your child's teachers will be able to give insight into your child's progress from a different perspective. They will know what is expected of your child for their age and how they are performing compared with other pupils in their year group. It could be that you are unnecessarily worried about something – teachers should always be welcoming to any questions you have and are there to help you.

7. Make use of good tech

It's 2020 and technology, such as voice recognition, is on the rise – lots of us use Siri, Google Voice Search or even have an Alexa in our homes (and even on our phones). Encourage your child to ask Alexa history facts, or ask questions to help with research for a homework project; this will cut out some of the time it takes to sit and stare at a computer screen, reading on a stark white background (notoriously unhelpful for dyslexics) from font that may be difficult for a dyslexic mind to de-code.

There are free text-to-speech apps out there and these can be enormously helpful for anyone who finds reading from a computer screen, tricky. The same can be said for speech-to-text (dictation software), which helps with getting ideas down in writing.

For inquisitive minds, audiobooks are a fantastic way to enjoy reading, without having to actually read from the page; this way, dyslexics can consume knowledge without barriers.

8. Visuals, visuals, visuals!

Chances are you already know that your child is a visual learner. Widgeit – www.widgitonline.com - is a great tool that you can use to create symbol documents. You can use Widgeit to create visual timetables. If your child's school doesn't do this, you can create one at home for them. You could also create a bedtime routine with symbols and/or photos alongside it, or plan a family day out with a visual itinerary of the day. This will all help to associate words with images and aid your child's reading skills.

9. Dyslexia and intelligence are two totally separate things

The most important thing you can do for your child is simply be there for them. Be there to encourage, support and inspire them. Reassure them about their talents and make sure they have a good understanding of dyslexia, what it is and how it affects their learning. Being dyslexic does not mean they have lower intelligence and there are a lot of positive traits that dyslexics have, such as being able to see the bigger picture, being more imaginative and being great problem solvers. Do your research and make sure that your child knows just how amazing they are!

10. Don't let them use it as an excuse

This point sounds harsh – but it is true. There is no reason at all why someone with dyslexia can't become extremely successful and achieve their goals and ambitions. Just take a look at some of the many famous dyslexics – Kiera Knightly, Holly Willoughby or Leonardo Da Vinci! We all have those days where everything seems to be more difficult than normal and we would rather just go back to bed – don't let your child use dyslexia as a reason they 'can't' do something and therefore give up. Yes, there are going to be difficult days, but if you have the determination to push on and work hard, you can and will achieve.

Embedding a Therapies Programme

Simon Jaggard, Head teacher and Director of Education, and Karen May, Director of Therapies, explain the integrated approach at St. Joseph's

St. Joseph's Specialist Trust is a co-educational children's home and day school catering for pupils between the ages of 5–19 with complex and severe learning difficulties. It is a truly collegial environment where each member of staff is an essential cog in the education/therapeutic/care machine that is St. Joseph's. We support and care for children who encounter enormous day to day challenges when faced with what we might deem to be the simplest of day to day tasks. These young people are supported, encouraged, nurtured, empowered, and cultivated to achieve all that they can for the short window of their lives which is spent in school. This is the one time in which society invests in them and they must have every opportunity to make progress in all areas of their development to give them opportunities to access the wider community in later life.

"The school is a happy caring place"
Outstanding Ofsted Nov 2017

The therapy team, working alongside the education team, enables prerequisites for academic learning to be highlighted and prioritised. Speech and language therapists can focus on developing non-verbal skills, turn-taking, joint attention, symbolic play and social interaction in order to support receptive and expressive communication. Occupational therapists can support and advise on sensory integration, bilateral awareness, motor planning and visual-spatial skills which are important building blocks in the learning triangle, leading to increased cognitive development. Creating an environment whereby expertise is shared across all disciplines enables the small steps approach to be adjusted up or down in a timely proactive manner. This ensures students benefit from a truly holistic approach to learning and all aspects of development and growth can be recorded and celebrated, be it literacy and numeracy focused or self-help or social skills.

Students with learning difficulties of this level require a 'small steps' approach in order to facilitate learning.

Across the curriculum, students may need to continue to access multi-sensory approaches. Multi-sensory approaches support our students to challenge and overcome their barriers to learning. The curriculum builds on individual strengths, interests and experiences which will be reflected in the schemes of work and individual education plans. Through this process, the school will develop, implement and review a developmental curriculum which addresses the specific impairments of the students' disabilities and provide access to the National Curriculum as appropriate to the developmental level of each student.

"Leaders' plans to pull together all strands of pupils' learning and development to provide a clear and comprehensive overview of the targets and achievement of each pupil are very well judged."

Outstanding Ofsted Nov 2017

For students with ASD this curriculum will be in part remedial, in helping students to overcome deficits and in part compensatory. Curriculum delivery will reflect the need for structure and repetition within subject areas which, in turn, will provide access to learning. The spiral curriculum revisits previous learning and knowledge and cements and builds upon what has been learned and experienced. Grabbing the attention of young people can be challenging at the best of times, at the worst of times the attention may be delivered on a vehicle of anti-social behaviour. These are not new ideas and indeed neither is the concept of an embedded and integrated therapies programme.

"Close working between education staff and therapists ensures that learning activities are sharply focused on meeting pupils' learning and development needs. This supports outstanding progress over time."

Outstanding Ofsted Nov 2017

What is different about St. Joseph's approach is that each class is led by a triad of class teacher, occupational therapist and speech and language therapist; there is no lead but a collaboration of professionals which really reflects the wider culture of an organisation that values problem solving and innovation. St. Joseph's is fortunate to have a full team of Speech and Language therapists, Occupational therapists and designated therapy assistants who are working within the classrooms to remove the obstacles to learning which traditional educational approaches have failed to achieve. Some students at St. Joseph's have been unable to remain in other settings and here they are able to access a truly individualised approach. By reducing the barriers which often hinder learning in other educational settings, pupils can develop a love for being at school and the individualised programmes supports each young person's strengths which become the focus of development. Mental health and well-being is supported through daily therapy led group sessions focussing on feelings and encouraging reflection and increasing awareness of strategies for emotional regulation.

The class teams follow a weekly cycle of meetings which supports embedded planning, consistent behaviour support and sharing of expertise across the school and college. These are structured by the three education pathways which range from Explorers (P4-8), to Discoverers (P8-NC2) and Adventurers (NC3 upwards). These pathways are jointly managed by a team of middle managers from education and therapy; a teacher and therapist jointly oversee each pathway strand. The pyramid of learning is an essential starting point; sensory systems and motor development are the key to accessing cognition and intellect.

"The school provides a rich range of opportunities for all pupils who are able to, to study vocational subjects, and prepare very well for the world of work. The offer is highly bespoke to each pupil's interests and aspirations."

Outstanding Ofsted Nov 2017

The activities of the wider curriculum are the vehicles for therapeutic input and the development of functional numeracy and literacy. The embedded model is also supported by additional psychological interventions; a team of Arts Psychotherapists (Art, Drama, Music) provide sessions to overcome significant barriers and trauma. In addition Clinical Psychologist and psychiatrist provide an in-house CAHMS for both residential and day students as required.

Preparing for Adulthood at Queen Alexandra College (QAC)

Queen Alexandra College (QAC) is a national specialist residential college that supports a diverse range of student abilities and needs. Based in Birmingham, the College offers an innovative, holistic approach to learning and support. It provides education, training and routes to independent living and employment. Class sizes are small and support levels high.

QAC is a stepping stone to your future life. Whatever your ambitions, QAC staff will provide support and assistance when leaving College based around your needs and aspirations to progress on to meaningful provision such as further education, higher education, supported internships, employment and supported living.

Regular Annual Reviews will be held with you, your family, College staff and other relevant professionals. Following the review a person-centred plan will be created and your Education, Health and Care (EHC) plan will be updated to reflect your needs.

Kerry Lowe, QAC Transitions Officer, commented: "During your time at QAC you will receive support, information, advice and guidance based around your needs and aspirations to explore your future options. My role is to help you make positive plans for what will happen when you leave QAC."

If you would like more information about transitions at QAC you can contact Kerry on 0121 428 5086 or email klowe@qac.ac.uk.

Emily's story: from Queen Alexandra College to paid employment...

Former QAC residential student Emily entered paid employment at The Birmingham Repertory Theatre in Birmingham City Centre.

Emily really enjoyed her time at QAC and successfully completed a vocational Hospitality programme. The College provided the support that she needed and offered her the opportunity to complete an external work placement with The Birmingham Repertory Theatre as part of her course.

Initially the work placement was over a three-month period, but it went so well Emily's placement converted to paid employment upon completion of her studies at QAC. Emily now works two regular shifts a week as a Barista and Usher, but often gets offered overtime due to her hardworking and professional attitude.

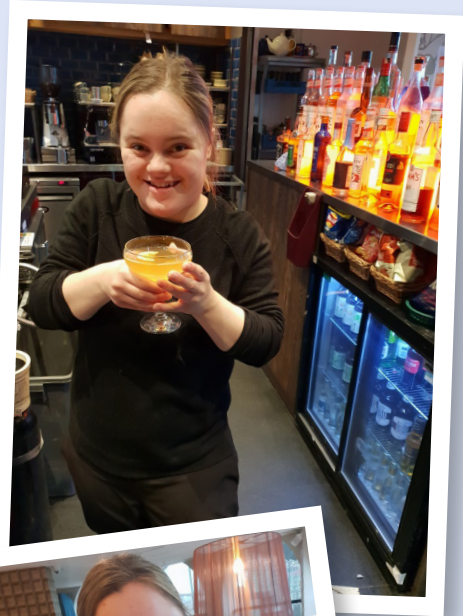

Responsibilities include opening the bar, serving drinks, greeting customers, selling programmes and merchandise, cleaning and taking payments. Emily loves music and theatre, so this is the perfect role for her!

Rather than return to the family home, Emily also progressed onto the College's supported living option, Independence Plus (IP). As a residential student, QAC's 24-hour curriculum helped Emily develop her independent living and social skills and Independence Plus allowed her to continue to develop this independence.

Clients on the IP programme still need support and the aim is to deliver a service that provides the means to live independently/semi independently into the distant future.

During 2018/19, 95% of QAC students achieved their main learning aim on accredited qualifications with progression outcomes for students (107 leavers including Emily) as follows:

- 18% Employment (voluntary and paid)
- 4% General FE
- 1% HE Institution
- 5% Independent Specialist College
- 48% Other (including Adult Social Care)
- 24% QAC Supported Internship/other programme
- 1% Work Based Training

Taking the whole curriculum outdoors

Dr Gill Barrett, Principal of The Loddon School®, explores learning beyond the classroom

When we think of learning at school we are conditioned to think indoors and inside a classroom. However, any approach to learning works just as effectively outdoors as it does indoors. For a child with SEND the outdoor environment can be the ideal place for learning. The Loddon School emphasises outdoor learning especially through free and structured play for all its students and was delighted to be awarded the status of Forest Schools Provider and named as an Outdoor Trailblazer school for Hampshire.

Outdoor learning is an umbrella term which embraces every type of learning experience which happens outside. Outdoor learning is about making the most of any place or space outside of the traditional school walls. Forest Schools have become popular providing hands-on learning experiences in woodland or natural environments. Learning through play outdoors, exploring the natural world as part of environmental education or being involved in work experience illustrate some of the wide variety of educational opportunities covered by outdoor learning at Loddon School.

The environment found beyond the sacred classroom is one well suited to a child who requires space to calm, a moderated sound input, natural light and a rich and varied sensory experience. When a child is able to learn in situ the quality of learning can be more authentic and relevant. Sir Patrick Geddes, a town planner, biologist and educator stated that 'by living we learn'. This approach is highly relevant for children with SEND who find it hard to generalise learning. Trying to use skills learnt in a classroom in another location is a major difficulty experienced by children with SEND. The outdoors provides a variety of practical learning experiences which meet the needs of the child directly. The constant rhythms of the natural world provide consistency for children with chaotic lives. Outdoor greenspaces allow a child to feel 'wild', while also giving space to relax and time to escape the stresses and strains of daily life. To enable a child to engage with quality learning they need to be able to fully regulate themselves giving a sense of calm enabling their mind to be alert and ready to learn.

Chip and Don Heath (2007) describe the ingredients required for making learning stick, the SUCCES Formula. Their research explored why some learning memories stuck more than others. The ingredients are:

- Simple – when outside a child can use natural objects which are familiar play items and being in situ the learning experience can be repeated easily giving the student confidence to use and explore further.
- Unexpected – child centred discovery learning outdoors establishes flow, engaging the child in the zone of learning.
- Concrete – when learning is linked to real events practical skills are developed. Active or kinetic learning responds well to the needs of many children with autism or ADHD.
- Credible learning experiences – play in a multisensory environment links well to the interests of the child and makes it engaging and memorable.
- Emotional – when the inquisitive, enquiring mind makes a discovery the 'wow moment' happens and learning flow sticks firmly.
- Stories – adventures in the outdoors act as a springboard to create a narrative, recalling the story many times making it a truly enriching learning moment.

Using the natural environment is highly beneficial for the well-being of staff and students. Humans need nature to thrive. Our cognitive, social, and emotional health is affected positively by time spent outside especially in natural space. Wendy Titman (1993) wrote about the positive effect that green spaces provide. They give a sense of feeling wild, a place to think, provide calm and time out from the stresses and strains of modern living. Spending time outdoors develops attitudes and practices for students as responsible citizens and a lifelong appreciation of the natural world. The Loddon School models appropriate behaviours and attitudes for its students towards the natural world through active participation in horticultural learning, growing food in its large polytunnel; participating in the national Garden Bird Watch weekend; tending to a variety of animals on its small farm and working towards a number of awards in partnership with the Royal Horticultural Society and the Royal Society for Protection of Birds.

Learning through play is a well-established mechanism for teaching younger students. There does appear to be a paradox existing between this understanding and a fear that there is no time to play as we have so much to cover in our national curriculum. Outdoor learning is the ideal environment for the acquisition of mathematical concepts and the development of language, or the launch pad for creative writing. Active learning outdoors grounded in body movements and interaction with the natural environment create concrete experiences about number, weight, size, patterns and sequences. Structured exploration can lead to mathematical proficiency. Creating the inquisitive mind by looking through a mathematical lens at the world makes learning stick. Teaching about depth and measurement by stepping in puddles developing learning to volume displacement, filling containers or pouring when gardening shows mass measurement for solids and volume for liquids, riding a bicycle provides opportunity for understanding size when parking or riding through spaces, and speed and distance calculations. Mark making in a mud pit can allow a child to practice handwriting skills for twice as long through this type of 'play'. Story creation along a nature walk giving a landscape rich in material for the creative mind generates work of a standard far above that developed within the regular four walls of a classroom.

As a residential school we educate the child from their home base and use a variety of learning spaces. The Sensory Adventure Playground, Tranquillity Garden and Nature Trail emphasize exploration and discovery, sensory calm, and spiritual experience. The Trim Trail, Outdoor Gym, climbing frames, swings, roundabout and slide provide physical educational experiences. The Forest Schools area, Paddocks and smallholding, polytunnel and horticultural gardens allow students to gain work experience and environmental learning.

Introducing CReSTeD

Exploring the work of The Council for the Registration of Schools Teaching Dyslexic Pupils

Introduction

The Council for the Registration of Schools Teaching Dyslexic pupils (CReSTeD) is a charity set up to help parents and those who advise them choose schools for children with Specific Learning Difficulties (SpLD) of which the main difficulty is dyslexia. There is however a general recognition that dyslexia rarely exists in isolation and latest research demonstrates a high level of co-occurrence with other difficulties. These include Dyspraxia, Dyscalculia, ADD, as well as Pragmatic and Semantic Language Difficulties.

CReSTeD acts as a source of information which can help parents making a placement decision about a child with SpLD. CReSTeD is a valuable resource for parents, educational advisers and schools.

CReSTeD was established in 1989 and publishes and maintains a list of schools and centres accredited for their SpLD provision - the Register - annually. The schools and centres listed within the Register cover all levels of provision for SpLD pupils and include both state and independent provision. The vast majority of schools on the Register are mainstream, offering a wide range of teaching styles, environment and facilities.

The Register

CReSTeD's main activity is to produce and supply to parents, free of charge, a Register of schools and centres which provide for pupils with one or more SpLD. The levels of provision is divided into six broad categories, five for schools: Dyslexia Specialist Provision (Category DSP), Specialist Provision Schools (Category SPS), Dyslexia Unit (Category DU), Withdrawal System (Category WS) and Maintained Sector (Category MS) and one for centres: Teaching Centres (Category TC). Children have different requirements and personalities; the categories are a way of helping match each child to the type of provision at the school or centre. A report from an Educational Psychologist or a specialist teacher who holds an Assessment Practising Certificate should offer guidance as to the level of provision relevant to the child.

A child at the severe end of the dyslexia spectrum may require a Dyslexia Specialist Provision school, whereas a child with, for example, only some slowness in spelling skills may be suitably provided for in a school from Category Withdrawal System. The categories offer this guidance. Note that the Maintained Sector is only open to local authority schools and not to Independent schools.

The Register is published annually and is obtainable from the CReSTeD Administrator or via the CReSTeD website: www.crested.org.uk The website also includes links to all registered schools and centres as well as to other websites that may be of assistance to parents of children with one or more SpLD. There is also a checklist to help parents decide if a school or centre can meet their child's education needs in relation to SpLD <https://crested.org.uk/documents/parentschecklist.pdf>

CReSTeD Criteria and Visits

Every school and centre on the CReSTeD list has been independently verified for SpLD provision by CReSTeD consultants which is not the case in all other lists.

The first stage of any registration is for the school to complete the CReSTeD registration form and to provide supporting documentation, such as policies for dyslexia. This form covers staff development, admission policy, organisation of the school week, specific arrangements for SpLD pupils, examination results for the whole school and for SpLD pupils in particular, resources and a list of parents' names so that the Consultant may check parents' feelings about the school or centre.

These criteria include the provision of relevant and high quality information technology resources, Joint Council for Qualifications (JCQ) approved training qualifications for teachers, awareness of the needs of dyslexic pupils by the non-specialist staff, and arrangements to obtain and provide special provision for examinations.

Consultants, who look to see if this information is accurate and that the school or centre meets the criteria set by CReSTeD Council for the particular category, visit the schools.

Schools and centres are visited on a three yearly cycle, with possible earlier visits if there are substantial changes, which should always be swiftly communicated to CReSTeD. If the Head of a CReSTeD school changes, we require the school to inform us and ask the new Head to confirm that the school intends to continue with the SpLD provision in accordance with the criteria set by CReSTeD (at the agreed category level). This enables us to retain the school's details in the Register without the need for an extra visit.

To encourage accuracy, Council require schools and centres to inform it of significant changes which impact on provision for SpLD pupils.

CReSTeD Council will initiate 'responsive' visits if it has any cause for concern about a particular school.

The Register

CReSTeD Council

Council includes representatives from a wide area of SpLD provision including Dyslexia Action, the British Dyslexia Association, Helen Arkell Dyslexia Charity, the Dyslexia-SpLD Trust and schools.

Categories

Categories are used to explain the type of provision given by a school. One category should not be seen as 'better' than another, but as a guide to the provision required by the student

There are six categories within our criteria according to the type of provision:

- Dyslexia Specialist Provision (DSP) schools established primarily to teach pupils with Dyslexia.
- Learning Support Centre (LSC) schools offer a designated unit that provides specialist tuition on a small group or individual basis, according to need.
- Maintained Schools (MS) local authority schools able to demonstrate an effective system for identifying pupils with dyslexia. This category also includes the British Dyslexia Association's Dyslexia Friendly Quality Mark Schools.
- Specialist Provision (SPS) schools are specifically established to teach pupils with dyslexia and other related specific learning difficulties.
- Teaching Centre (TC) designated centre providing specialist tuition on a small group or individual basis, according to need.
- Withdrawal System (WS) schools help dyslexic pupils by withdrawing them from appropriately selected lessons for specialist tuition.

Conclusion

CReSTeD was founded to help parents. It has had, and will continue to have, influence on the standards of provision for pupils with SpLD's. Council is grateful for the support of the British Dyslexia Association, Dyslexia Action, Helen Arkell Dyslexia Charity, the Dyslexia-SpLD Trust, the schools on the Register and parents.

Prior's Court School provides education and residential care for children and young people from 5 to 19 years with autism, moderate-to-severe learning difficulties and complex needs.

Some young people may have other medical conditions or additional needs such as ADHD, epilepsy. Some young people may exhibit challenging behaviours. Many are non-verbal, pre-verbal or have limited functional language.

Prior's Court School opened in 1999 and is managed by registered charity Prior's Court Foundation. It is an independent special school, dually registered as a Children's Home offering day, weekly and termly placements with 38, 44 and 52-week options.

Additionally, Prior's Court Young Adult Provision was set up in 2011 to meet the continuing needs of young adults between the ages of 19 and 25 with autism, learning difficulties and complex needs. It offers 52 week residential care with an onsite learning centre.

As an autism-specific school, Prior's Court is able to focus on meeting the special needs of its young people in the most effective and consistent way to support their learning.

- The environment is specially adapted to meet young people's needs – it is highly structured, calm, low-arousal and safe providing opportunities to learn, exercise, interact and relax onsite.
- Prior's Court School's commitment to autism expertise means that staff are trained and experienced in using a range of methodologies and strategies to support each individual's needs and development in all settings throughout the Waking Day.
- There is a large onsite multi-disciplinary team providing therapeutic and health support throughout 52 weeks including Occupational therapy, Speech and Language therapy, Positive Behaviour Support and Nursing able to provide support throughout the school day and in residential settings as well as out in the community.
- Our provision focuses on meeting the special educational needs of the young people with an emphasis on creating meaningful and functional learning opportunities which build on each individual's strengths and interests to provide a person-centred approach.
- By having learning objectives which are consistent across education and residential settings, young people are able to learn throughout the Waking Day. Individual Learning, Essential Lifestyle Plans and Positive Behaviour Support plans are reviewed regularly by specialist, experienced staff across education, residential, night, therapeutic and multi-disciplinary teams.

Young people have access to the National Curriculum through an adapted scheme of work. The curriculum also addresses the characteristic additional needs of young people with autism. Therefore significant emphasis is placed upon communication, independent life, literacy and numeracy skills, vocational and learning skills.

Young people throughout Prior's Court School work through ASDAN accreditation with a larger emphasis for the Upper School who attend identified learning streams based on their strengths, interests and emerging skills.

By combining autism expertise and best practice with a person-centred approach, the school aims to achieve the highest level of progress for each individual enabling them to self-manage behaviour, communicate, manage transitions, develop independent living and social skills, make choices and advocate and progress to building vocational skills and undertaking work-placement activities.

Skills are taught onsite and applied out in the community during regular offsite trips, enabling students to work towards inclusion as far as possible.

"We were often told by professionals that our son, Brandon, was the most challenging and severely autistic child they had ever met. Since Brandon has started at Prior's court, we have seen him achieve milestones that we thought to be impossible. Brandon is now able to communicate with PECS, and at times, language. His anxiety levels have dropped and, consequently, so have the levels of challenging behaviour. The times we now spend together as a family are very positive."

Gretton School welcomes autistic children and young people aged from 5-19 years old, as weekly boarders or as day students. Every student at Gretton has a diagnosis of autism or aspergers syndrome and every student is different.

As autism specialists, we understand that consistent daily routines and staffing helps to keep anxiety at a minimum and ensures that our students feel safe and confident in their surroundings.

We have a high staff to student ratio and classes are small and personal – we know each of our students really well and employ the best strategies to support them in their everyday school life.

A broad curriculum, an emphasis on holistic development, and the development of life and social skills, means that we are able to bring out the best in all our students, and to provide them with opportunities to flourish.

At whatever stage your child joins Gretton, we will ensure they are happy and prepared to make the most of the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of life.

At Radlett Lodge School, we are driven by our determination to provide the highest quality education to the children in our care and do the best we can for their families.

We get to know each pupil well, ensuring every element of their school life is personalised to them. At Radlett Lodge, we celebrate the achievements of all of our pupils and recognise that what some might see as a tiny step can be an enormous challenge for an individual.

Radlett Lodge School caters for Early Years, Primary, Secondary and Post-16 pupils. The school and our residential provision, The Lodge, are located on the same site, which promotes the Radlett Lodge community and supports transitions. We value Community Based Education (CBE) as being a fundamental aspect of our work which enables our pupils to develop their communication, social and life skills in the local community. These community opportunities are extended in our Post 16 department. Radlett Lodge offers 43 or 38 termly or weekly boarding and flexi-boarding to meet pupils individual needs.

In a structured and supportive learning environment with the help of friendly, approachable staff, pupils develop their communication, social relationships, life skills and receive a broad and balanced education.

Placements are funded by your Local Authority.

“Radlett Lodge School understands and supports my child in the most wonderful way. As parents, we think that the school is amazing and we have the utmost confidence in it.”

Hardwick House School is an independent specialist provision located in the university town of Loughborough which caters for children and young people with a diagnosis and an Educational Health Care Plan (EHCP) for Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD).

The philosophy of Hardwick House School is to put the needs of its learners first. The teaching approach is learner-centred and, although access to the National Curriculum is in place, we believe its principal focus should be on the special learning difficulties associated with autism.

Our location provides a unique environment, which promotes the growth and development of the young people in our care, whilst facilitating their development as individuals and as part of a community.

As the first autism-specific school in the world, Sybil Elgar School is a pioneer in autism education. Having paved the way in autism education for over 50 years, we have the knowledge and experience to apply the tailored education and care each young person who learns with us will receive.

We have a highly specialised curriculum, and our dedicated staff closely support the learning of each pupil in communication, social, behavioural, emotional, sensory, physical and self-help skills. Our extensive performing arts curriculum complements this. Students can discover a new passion or enhance learning in other subjects through music, art and dance. They might play the drums in the school band and even perform at an international arts festival.

Our welcoming environment extends across our two school sites, which include a EYS, primary, secondary 16-22 FE department, where all staff work together to ensure the safety, wellbeing and progress of all our students.

Each young person on the autism spectrum has unique needs and unique approaches to learning, so at Sybil Elgar we ensure each of our students has an experience with us that is truly personalised to them, their strengths, weaknesses and ambitions. And we recognise every achievement, helping our students value their successes and celebrate them.

Age range: 11-19

Capacity: 78

Established: 2020

Vanguard School opened in January 2020 to students aged 11-19 on the autism spectrum from Lambeth and neighbouring boroughs in Greater London. The specialist autism school will eventually cater for up to 78 students. The school will grow gradually, with a phased intake of students, starting with years 7 and 8.

We've run autism-specific schools for over 50 years and continue to innovate all the time; we now have a thriving employment offer too, helping 1,000 employers last year to understand autism better.

We are committed to developing outstanding schools that improve outcomes for young people on the autism spectrum.

At Vanguard School, we seek to engage our students in learning through the delivery of a flexible and challenging curriculum, where all lessons have a sense of discovery. Each young person on the autism spectrum has unique needs and unique approaches to learning, therefore, we personalise the curriculum to meet the individual needs of each student.

The school works in partnership with our other eight schools and the wider organisation to strengthen and develop expertise and innovative thinking.

Being the latest in the line of the National Autistic Society's schools, Vanguard uses the tried and tested approaches that we have developed and used in our network of schools over many years: we know they make a difference.

We want every student who leaves Vanguard School to have developed real life skills and emotional resilience, helping them step seamlessly into meaningful paid employment, further education or enterprising work.

The Holmewood School London, is a school for 7-19-year-olds with high-functioning autism, Asperger's Syndrome, and other language, communication and social difficulties.

Our philosophy is founded on a desire to make a difference and to challenge the way all members of our community think about autism. At The Holmewood School, we ensure our young people get every opportunity to achieve their full potential in life, irrespective of any difficulties. This commitment is an intrinsic part of our philosophy. It is at the heart of everything we work towards.

Our aim is to enable every young person to flourish by encouraging and building upon their unique strengths and interests. Students are supported to develop and deploy strategies that overcome and cope with their difficulties. We recognise that every student is different, and the individual hopes, dreams and ambitions of each young person are our starting point. In addition to academic achievement, the focus at The Holmewood School is on developing the social, emotional and personal skills of each student. This is supported by ensuring that we strengthen their independent living skills and teach them to advocate for themselves, which in turn lead to greater confidence and self-esteem.

Age range of pupils: 7–19 years

East London Independent School (ELIS) is a TCES Group school, providing LA funded day-school education for pupils aged 7-19 years whose Social, Emotional or Mental Health (SEMH) needs or Autism Spectrum Condition (ASC), plus complex co-morbid needs has made it difficult for them to achieve success in a mainstream school. Pupils often have undiagnosed speech, language and communication needs, sensory or learning difficulties, which can create barriers to learning that are addressed before the pupil can settle into education.

ELIS is housed in a newly developed state-of-the-art school building, which boasts a specially designed low-arousal, autism friendly environment that suits all pupils regardless of their needs. Uniquely, the school successfully teaches ASC and SEMH pupils together.

Our integrated approach to education, health and care, takes each pupil on an individual journey that encourages a love of learning. We provide a well-structured routine in a safe, calm and happy environment that promotes tolerance and respect throughout our school community. We nurture ambition and work with each child to provide them with the life skills, accreditation and certification needed to achieve future careers.

Pupils are taught in groups of up to six to ensure each individual receives an intensive level of support, with a Teacher and TA as minimum. TCES Group's Inclusion Model is embedded at ELIS, delivered by the Inclusion Manager and Pastoral Care Co-ordinator: tutor support, key work, group process, nurture groups and leadership skills are part of the core offer.

The school delivers TCES Group's 5 Part Curriculum, which includes access to support from the Clinical and Therapy Team on an as-needs basis. Individualised therapy programmes are delivered by our in-house team and access to Clinical Psychology and a Paediatrician at Consultant level can be arranged for pupils whose needs require further investigation.

Pupils attending ELIS often need highly personalised learning programmes and can remain for Post-16 programmes of study, specialising in developing independence, preparation for adult life and life after school.

A parallel service to our schools, TCES Group's Create Service offers therapeutic education, delivered through a case co-ordination model, to pupils who present (or are at) significant risk to themselves or others, and who cannot be educated in a school setting.

Our vision is of a society where speech and language disabilities do not prevent a young person from achieving his or her learning and communication potential, building an independent life and contributing positively to society.

Moor House is a Non-Maintained Special School and College, a registered charity and a world class centre of excellence, consistently rated outstanding by Ofsted. It provides specialist education, therapy and residential care for children and young people with speech and language needs, increasingly referred to as Developmental Language Disorder (DLD).

We provide a nurturing environment where experienced teams care for the educational, emotional and developmental needs of each student, preparing them for a safe, happy and fulfilling life. Moor House provides integrated teaching, therapy and residential care services for students with DLD.

Each student is surrounded by a multi-disciplinary team, supporting their learning and emotional well-being with intensive speech and language therapy, specialist literacy intervention, occupational therapy, physiotherapy and psychotherapy. Students receive one-to-one and small group teaching and bespoke therapy, and have access to a range of activities to develop new skills and build friendships.

This enables students to reach their highest educational and communication potential, and also to develop much higher levels of independent living skills, self-expression, and self-esteem.

Learning

Students are taught in small groups by teachers with experience working with children with language difficulties.

Adapted language and specialist teaching strategies are used so that students can understand and develop the language that they need for learning.

Speech and language therapists (SLTs) work closely with teachers to support each child's difficulties and strengths. Teachers plan and deliver lessons collaboratively with SLTs to help students develop curriculum language.

Curriculum and Progress (School)

An adapted National Curriculum is taught and tailored to the students' strengths while helping them with areas of difficulty, and there is a particular emphasis on English, literacy, life skills and social skills.

We deliver exceptional outcomes for DLD children, helping our students to make outstanding academic progress, narrowing the gap significantly between themselves and their mainstream peers. Students take qualifications that match with their skills and level of development. We offer GCSEs in English Language, English Literature, Mathematics, Science, ICT, History, Fine Art and Ceramics. We also offer Functional Skills qualifications in English and Maths, vocational qualifications such as Home Cooking Skills at Levels 1 and 2, the AQA Unit Award Scheme in Science, and Entry Level qualifications in subjects such as English, Maths, ICT, DT and Music.

College (Sixth Form) Curriculum

Our objective is to support students to gain vocational qualifications, make confident and appropriate life choices and to be prepared for the next stage of their adult life. Specialist staff support students to access local partner college courses in Art and Design, Child Care, Media Studies, Floristry, Construction, Catering, Sport, Performing Arts and Animal Management, from Foundation and Level 1 in Year 12 to Level 4 at the end of Year 14.

We provide specialist support to achieve additional qualifications in Maths and English and develop important skills for life and employment, through individual study programmes and after college support.

Speech and Language Therapy

SLTs work throughout the day with students, individually, in groups, as well as in the classroom where lessons such as English are jointly planned and delivered.

Each therapist has a small caseload of children and gets to know their abilities and personalities. The intensive therapy programme may focus on learning skills, developing strategies to communicate, and support the student to understand their own strengths and difficulties. We teach skills for talking in everyday situations, language for lessons, social skills, friendship skills and independence.

We have developed specialist evidence based methods such as Electropalatography (EPG), Shape Coding by Susan Ebbels® and signing with grammatical markers.

Occupational Therapy

Occupational Therapists (OTs) work on life skills to help students develop their independence in areas such as handwriting, touch typing, doing up a tie or shoe laces, travel or cooking skills. Strategies are provided to develop sensory processing in lessons to manage and improve attention control.

We have a dedicated Team of OTs and a fully equipped OT suite which includes sensory integration equipment. The therapists communicate regularly with parents about their child's progress.

Residential Care

Our residential community provides single room facilities within our beautiful Village; three newly built student houses, located around a communal square for relaxing after school.

The students frequently describe their house as a 'home from home' and their wellbeing is assured by their key workers, who look after students' emotional welfare and provide a range of therapeutic strategies after school in a happy, stimulating and caring environment.

Our Residential Care continues to be rated "Outstanding" by Ofsted who noted: 'Children and young people thrive in this residential setting ... (they) blossom in their confidence and self-esteem. Those who have had very poor school experiences and, in some cases, have refused school, look forward to their return to the provision after the weekend. Children and young people who stay in the residential setting feel safe and secure. There is an excellent approach to supporting children and young people towards independence'.

Moor House Research and Training

Our pioneering institute for training and research into DLD informs our therapeutic practice and teaching methods. Our therapists engage in cutting edge research in all areas of speech and language, working with Universities and sharing knowledge with other professionals through journals and presentations. Moor House is deservedly highly regarded by academics and specialists in the field. For information on our research, please see www.moorhouse.surrey.sch.uk/research. For information on our training, please see www.moorhouse.surrey.sch.uk/courses-and-conferences.

Moor House also provides a range of outreach, information and training services in all aspects of speech and language disabilities for parents and the wider community.

Principal: Simon Collins

School type: mixed independent school for children and young people on the autism spectrum

Catchment area: London, South East and East Anglia

Age range: 5-19

Capacity: 83

Established: 1968

At Helen Allison School, we deliver a high quality, relevant and enjoyable education and use our expert knowledge of autism to find the best possible way for each student to learn to the best of their ability.

Every student at Helen Allison has a truly personalised curriculum and timetable. Students learn at their own pace and according to their own needs and interests, ensuring they get the best start in life with an education that teaches both traditional academic subjects and core life skills. We believe in preparing our students for leading fulfilling adult lives and enhance our curriculum with a wide range of social activities and community-based learning to support this.

Through our hub, older students partake in work experience, pursue formal qualifications or might even organise a football tournament with other local schools and colleges.

We are always pushing for excellence for our students, thinking creatively to adapt to their needs and aspirations.

As one of only a few schools with our own therapeutic team, your child will develop not only academically but foster strong social and communication skills so they can thrive alongside their peers.

Placements are funded by your Local Authority.

“We support the students and design the curriculum with our eyes on the rest of life: we want to prepare our students for the skills needed for skilled employment.”

Age range: 5-16

Capacity: 54

Established: 2013

Thames Valley School is a high-achieving specialist school for children and young people on the autism spectrum. Our school has been purpose-built for us, meaning we could design it to be perfectly suitable for our students. We have independent rooms attached to every classroom, outdoor play areas for all ages and a state-of-the-art innovation hub, opening up opportunities for pupils to take on digital projects such as coding, social media and cyber security.

We have high expectations of our pupils, and through delivering the National Curriculum at all key stages, we expect the majority of our students to attain at least the same levels as their mainstream school peers. At age 16, our pupils take national qualifications, and our aim is for most to achieve GCSEs at grades 9 to 4 or equivalent vocational qualifications.

Small classes, committed and experienced specialist teachers and a wonderful learning environment all contribute to making our school an exceptional place to be.

We encourage a love of learning that will enable our students to lead happy and fulfilled lives as we prepare them for independence and future challenges along with academic qualifications.

Placements are funded by your Local Authority.

“Some pupils told inspectors that the school had simply transformed their lives. They are particularly reassured by adults, saying that whenever they need it, emotional support is always on hand. Pupils feel safe.”

The Loddon School is a residential special school for children aged 8-19 years with profound autistic spectrum disorders, associated challenging behaviours and severe learning difficulties.

Set in extensive rural grounds, in Sherfield on Loddon, Hampshire. The Loddon School provides a homely, caring environment for children and young people to learn and thrive in. The Loddon School educates those in their care through a homeschool type model surrounded by a highly integrated multidisciplinary team for 52 weeks a year. All children live in small family groups with their own staff who are responsible for their care and support programme and their social development.

The Loddon School is a leading pioneer in the world of autistic education. Designing its own outstanding methodology and behavioural approaches (PROACT-SCIPr-UK®) which is used nationally and internationally in both schools and adult care provision. The school operates a truly unique curriculum (PLLUSS®) delivered throughout the waking day incorporating a personalized sensory diet maintaining high levels of engagement with children who have previously failed to thrive in their educational settings.

What makes The Loddon School outstanding?

- Children, most of whom have struggled in other residential special schools, make exceptional progress. They engage with their learning, find new ways to communicate other than through challenging behaviour, grow in confidence and self-esteem. Consequently, they are very well prepared for life beyond school.
- Pupils' personal development is exemplary. Highly knowledgeable, multidisciplinary teams make life-changing differences for pupils.
- Safeguarding practice is outstanding. The protection of children is embedded in practice across the entire team.
- Senior managers show exceptional leadership. They are inspirational, confident and ambitious. Monitoring is excellent.
- Staff have exemplary insight into the abilities of individual pupils. Assessment is outstanding, including the analysis of pupils' behaviours. There is nothing that leaders and staff do not think about or provide for pupils.

Church Lawton School was the National Autistic Society's second free school, providing tailored care for local autistic students. We opened in 2015 and offer a highly specialised learning environment to our pupils on our brand new, purpose-built site. We recently opened our sensory field, complete with all weather sports surface and outdoor learning environments.

With large open classrooms and an average class size of six to eight, our pupils have the space and attention they need to reach their full potential.

Combined with well-resourced classrooms, our building is equipped for academic excellence, and so we aim for our pupils to perform well in different exam pathways including Entry Level, GCSEs, ASDAN, A-Levels and more. We were last rated as Good by Ofsted with Outstanding elements.

We inspire your child about school and learning through our flexible and engaging curriculum, empowering them to have a rich and varied education experience. Systematic and thorough, we work with you and your child to create the best education personalised for their strengths and interests. We equip pupils with the skills and knowledge to support them as they move into further study and adult life. They get to know their community and, as they move through the school, have the opportunity to take part in work experience or study in local colleges and universities. Above all, we are dedicated to making sure every one of our pupils is given the tools they need to thrive.

QAC is a national residential College that supports a diverse range of student abilities and needs.

The College has been at its current location since 1903 and offers an innovative, holistic approach to learning and support.

We offer support and guidance for students with visual impairment, autistic spectrum conditions, those with moderate to severe learning difficulties, students with physical and other disabilities.

Ultimately, we have a great mix of students which adds to the wonderful atmosphere here in College. Class sizes are small and support levels high.

At QAC your learning is planned around your individual needs, interests and ambitions. Our curriculum covers a wide range of programmes including Preparation for Life (PFL) delivered at Pre-Entry to Entry level and a range of vocational qualifications to level 3.

Our LEAP programme (Learning, Employment and Progression) offers a stepping stone for students from PFL into a more work focused environment. A supported internship study programme, based at our specialist satellite site Pinewood, could also be followed which involves spending the majority of time with an employer in a real job role.

The College has a team of specialists on site who are able to support students, including Speech and Language Therapists, a VI Training Officer, Educational and Clinical Psychologists, Counsellors, Mentors, a Braille Tutor, Occupational Therapy and Sensory Support, a Dyslexia Tutor, Healthcare Professionals including a Physiotherapist, Rehabilitation and Travel Trainers and a Personal and Sexual Health Education (PSHE) Lead.

Enrichment programmes enhance the curriculum and help to develop self-esteem, confidence and independence. Our residential provision develops essential skills for personal development such as independent living and social skills. We also offer a specialist respite service.

Facilities include new buildings with the latest technology, a fitness centre, state-of-the-art sports hall, sports field, sensory room, onsite travel training area, library and student centre.

A specialist residential school offering flexible education and care, principally as a 52-week service with limited capacity for day placements, for young people aged 8-19, all of whom have complex needs including behaviour that may challenge and a learning disability, often in association with autism.

Fullerton House School is situated in the heart of the village of Denaby Main, near Doncaster. Its central location provides easy access by road, rail or air. Our mission is to enhance the lives of the young people entrusted to us by focusing on their specific needs, capabilities and aspirations.

Education: Each person has a carefully

designed Individual Learning Plan based on their EHCP as well as their specific needs in line with the National Curriculum, which supports their positive progress in a range of areas.

Extended learning: During evenings, weekends and school holidays a wide range of extra-curricular activities are on offer to ensure that people are fully engaged with stimulating and meaningful experiences both on and off-site.

Professional services: A dedicated on-site team including carers, teachers, tutors, communication, behaviour and occupational therapy, psychology and other specialists ensure that people have ready access to the services they require.

High-quality accommodation: Single person and small group occupancy of high-quality accommodation is provided at Fullerton House School. Each person has their own bedroom, the majority of which have en-suite bathrooms. We also have a range of on-site facilities to complement and enrich the lives of those who come to live and learn with us.

Keeping in contact: We understand that while we may offer a very positive option for the person, we may not be on your doorstep. Keeping in touch with loved ones is essential. Everyone has a plan to support optimum contact with family/carers and friends whether this be by phone, letter, email or Skype.

One of the largest independent schools in the UK for autistic children and young people, Robert Ogden School offers an environment where students can feel safe, supported and encouraged to achieve beyond their expectations. Working with your child, we create a tailor-made experience for each student so that they are able to reach their full potential and thrive in education and beyond.

We are autism experts, with a specialist team dedicated to providing the highest quality care and education to our students. We have two Inclusive Learning Hubs run by a highly skilled group of staff who ensure pupils with particularly complex needs, requiring a non-directive approach, get the individualised curriculum and attention they need to thrive alongside their peers.

With autism-friendly buildings and facilities, your child will comfortably settle into school life. We even have a pottery room, several sensory and soft play rooms, a purpose-built primary unit and a teaching flat for independent living skills.

Our students have every opportunity to develop the skills they will need for adult life, which is why we have a student-run café and shop, an award-winning fudge making enterprise project and a partnership with local charity shops. We give our students the help they need to make the best of their strengths and build upon them.

Placements are funded by your Local Authority.

“You have achieved what many others could not... I am so grateful for Robert Ogden, no wonder so many parents are fighting for a place, it truly is a magnificent school with magnificent staff.”

Our young adult services offer flexible education care and support for up to 52 weeks per year for young people aged 18-25, who have complex needs including behaviour that may challenge and a learning disability, often in association with autism.

At The Paddocks, everyone lives within a beautiful rural setting with ready community access and The Limes is in the heart of the community, in an urban setting with many local facilities including a sports centre, restaurants and shops.

Mission

We have 2 pathways available for the young people attending college.

Formal Education Pathway with a focus on gaining educational qualifications, skills and experience to move on to employment opportunity and further independence in their lives.

Next Steps Pathway for young people who have completed their formal educational route and are now wishing to build vocational and independence skills for life style experience and development-including social enterprise work.

Both pathways offer accreditation in the skills and qualifications the young people achieve, but the journeys are varied and personalised to the young persons needs and outcomes at this significant life stage.

Education: Everybody has a highly personalised programme of learning, equipping them with skills they will need for adult life.

Extended learning: During evenings, weekends and college holidays a wide range of extra-curricular activities are on offer to ensure people are fully engaged with stimulating experiences both on and off site providing further, meaningful learning opportunities.

Professional services: A dedicated multi-disciplinary therapeutic team including college tutors, college support workers, consultant clinical psychologist, consultant psychiatrist, applied behaviour analysts, speech and language therapists, occupational therapists, registered manager, care and support staff work together to support each individual's progress.

High quality accommodation: College accommodation includes individualised bedrooms, quality living spaces that promote independence and progressive skills development assisted by the appropriate use of specialist/adaptive technology. We also have a range of on-site and off-site facilities that offer progressive learning opportunities for young people with a range of needs and wishes.

Keeping in contact: We work to develop relationships between staff and families that are strong, positive and mutually respectful. People are supported to be in contact with their friends and family; we welcome visits to the colleges at any time. Everyone has a plan that will include the best means for them to maintain this contact whether by 'phone, letter, email or Skype.

Opened in 2004, Beechwood College is a specialist day and residential service for young adults between the ages of 16 and 25 with a formal diagnosis of Autistic Spectrum Condition or Asperger's Syndrome.

Based upon the principles of TEACCH, PECS and Makaton, the College's goal is to provide opportunities and experiences for each individual, regardless of ability, to prepare them for later life. The integrated approach to learning has qualified lecturers, residential and clinical teams partnering together so that each student's personalised education programme is developed and reinforced consistently in a 24-hour learning environment which can lead to formal accreditation.

It is a tribute to the hard work of our students and the efforts of the Beechwood College team that students enjoy success in a wide area of skills. In the year 2018 83% of students achieved BTEC and ASDAN qualifications. Students also participate and complete Duke of Edinburgh Bronze and Silver Scheme Awards and Enterprise Projects aimed at building confidence, team working and community living skills.

Beechwood College is situated in Sully South Wales, adjoining green fields and overlooking the Bristol Channel. Yet the shops and social facilities of Barry are only a few minutes drive away.

Beechwood College is part of the South Wales-based Ludlow Street Healthcare Group. Employing more than 1100 staff including extensive clinical teams, Ludlow Street Healthcare is a provider of tailored care solutions for adults over the age of 16 who have a range of complex mental health, personality disorder and physical health needs.

TO HELP
MYSELF.

We're one of the UK's leading independent providers of residential services, schools and colleges supporting people with autism and complex needs.

Our highly trained staff provide the highest quality, person-centred approach. Giving those who use our services the support, skills and tools they need to be as independent as possible.

Our unique Hesley Enhancing Lives Programme (HELP) is a big part of this.

Combining the latest techniques and practices, HELP is our successful value-based positive behaviour support programme. Based on the principles of Therapeutic Crisis Intervention which is accredited by the British Institute of Learning Disabilities, HELP reduces the need for high-risk interventions by taking an empathic and proactive approach. We focus on how our actions can positively shape the emotional well-being of all those who use our services. It's why all our staff are given HELP training to make sure it works in practice as well as theory.

Find out more about our schools and colleges visit www.hesleygroup.co.uk or call 0800 0556789.

Established in 1975, Hesley Group, through its schools and colleges support 8 to 25 year olds with a highly experienced and expert multidisciplinary educational, care and therapeutic staff resource, in high quality purpose built settings. East London Independent School (ELIS) is a TCES Group school, providing LA funded day-school education for pupils aged 7-19 years whose Social, Emotional or Mental Health (SEMH) needs or Autism Spectrum Condition (ASC), plus complex co-morbid needs has made it difficult for them to achieve success in a mainstream school. Pupils often have undiagnosed speech, language and communication needs, sensory or learning difficulties, which can create barriers to learning that are addressed before the pupil can settle into education.

ELIS is housed in a newly developed state-of-the-art school building, which boasts a specially designed low-arousal, autism friendly environment that suits all pupils regardless of their needs. Uniquely, the school successfully teaches ASC and SEMH pupils together.

Our integrated approach to education, health and care, takes each pupil on an individual journey that encourages a love of learning. We provide a well-structured routine in a safe, calm and happy environment that promotes tolerance and respect throughout our school community. We nurture ambition and work with each child to provide them with the life skills, accreditation and certification needed to achieve future careers.

Pupils are taught in groups of up to six to ensure each individual receives an intensive level of support, with a Teacher and TA as minimum. TCES Group's Inclusion Model is embedded at ELIS, delivered by the Inclusion Manager and Pastoral Care Co-ordinator: tutor support, key work, group process, nurture groups and leadership skills are part of the core offer.

The school delivers TCES Group's 5 Part Curriculum, which includes access to support from the Clinical and Therapy Team on an as-needs basis. Individualised therapy programmes are delivered by our in-house team and access to Clinical Psychology and a Paediatrician at Consultant level can be arranged for pupils whose needs require further investigation.

Pupils attending ELIS often need highly personalised learning programmes and can remain for Post-16 programmes of study, specialising in developing independence, preparation for adult life and life after school.

A parallel service to our schools, TCES Group's Create Service offers therapeutic education, delivered through a case co-ordination model, to pupils who present (or are at) significant risk to themselves or others, and who cannot be educated in a school setting.

Who we are

West Heath is an Ofsted Outstanding and award-winning Charity set up specifically to support vulnerable children for whom maintained SEN and mainstream schools were unable to meet need. The School designation of Social, Emotional and Mental Health only goes a short way to describing the complexity of our students. We offer a broad curriculum as well as 'Heart' our Therapeutic Centre, Steam Lab (in conjunction with Lego Education) and our Forest School. We have up to 150 places, 29 of which are Residential, and our setting is based on a 32-acre site in the Heart of Sevenoaks, Kent.

Who we support

Students referred to us will have seen their mainstream provision break down, some having worked their way through several specialist providers unable to meet need or effectively engage with the young person. Others may have come from the Health sector, having been resident in a mental health provision. The SEN diagnosis of our student group is varied, many have a diagnosis of an Autism Spectrum Condition; all our students face challenges with their social communication and interaction with the social world in which they live.

How we support

Our focus is on education, both in terms of academic and personal development. Barriers to learning and the challenges, are met and worked through rather than avoided. This is through a range of strategies being put in place to continually support students ongoing development. We have a range of therapies on site, working directly with students to meet needs identified from professionals. Therapy is embedded into our curriculum, with Speech and Language, Self-Science and STEAM Lab lessons forming part of the weekly timetable. We have created a number of different learning environments and approaches enabling students to successfully access their education and to make learning achievable.

What can you study?

We follow the National Curriculum and have a range of GCSE/NVQ options in Upper School. Our facilities are extensive including a professional catering kitchen, sports facilities including tennis courts and swimming pool, expressive arts, including a studio and textiles room. We also offer options including Duke of Edinburgh, Animal-based studies including Equine and Princes Trust. Study is not limited to the subjects we offer on site; students work toward studying at college with support before finally making the transition to independent study.

The environment

Our school has several different and engaging environments for learning. All our class sizes are small, with a maximum of six per class in Lower and Middle School and eight per class in Upper School. Those attending Colleges will be supported by our staff based in our Partner colleges to attend mainstream lessons with the option of a smaller space to revert to if needed. Students who have Higher needs and are unable to meet the challenges of a general school structure will be based within our Heart Provision. We also have a very successful Educated Offsite Provision which caters for those students that require educational stimulation in alternative environments such as Land based activities, Horse Riding etc.

After West Heath

We are pleased to say that the majority of our learners have positive and successful outcomes. Some of these include our students returning to study in a mainstream environment, graduating from University, gaining full time employment or simply being better placed to meet the personal challenges that had previously been barriers to their becoming active members of society.

OUTSTANDING IN THREE CONSECUTIVE INSPECTION CYCLES (2009/2010, 2012/2013 AND 2017/2018).

Message From The Headship Group

“Here at The Roaches School, we aim to enable pupils to achieve their goals and maximise their potential through offering proactive care and education plans, supporting children who find education difficult by nurturing and promoting a love of learning and life and ensuring that each child is valued as an individual, is aware of his or her fellow beings, assumes responsibility for his/her own actions and is prepared to make a positive contribution to our school community”.

THE ROACHES SCHOOL: a multi site school catering for SEMH pupils offering children aged 5-16:

- a broad and balanced curriculum
- a bespoke Outdoor Education programme
- extra curricular enrichment opportunities
- Cultural Capital embedded within
- a Tripartite Therapeutic Centre
- access to onsite psychotherapists
- ELC, GCSE and vocational qualifications

I could write a million things, but still don't think I could write enough. I wish I could give you the world like you did for me when you gave me my baby back. You are the most remarkable people I have ever met and I thank you from the bottom of my heart for all your help, support and love. To the world you may just be teachers but to the Smith family you are HEROES!

PARENT TESTIMONIAL: - attendance at The Roaches School (February 2014—July 2019)

Personalised Therapeutic Education

TCES Group provides education solutions for pupils aged 7-19 years with Social, Emotional or Mental Health needs (SEMH) or Autism Spectrum Condition (ASC) and complex co-morbid needs. Our integrated approach to education and therapy takes each pupil on a journey of change that encourages a love of learning. We will find an education solution for every child – including:

Day School Provision For pupils able to integrate easily into a small group learning environment. The pupil would be supported by our Team Around the Child approach.

Create Service A therapeutic education programme that runs parallel to our schools. We meet the needs of the most high risk, complex and vulnerable pupils who are not yet ready to succeed in formal small group learning environments. Through our Journey of Change model we help pupils step down into a school setting.

Home Learning Planned and delivered by specialist staff, the programme pays close attention to individual pupil needs, adjusting the balance between academic, therapeutic, wellbeing and safeguarding support based on expert needs assessment.

The academic element of the curriculum can be delivered online nationally, or as one-to-one home tuition in certain circumstances.

We never give up

20 years, 3000 pupils, no permanent exclusions - now, no fixed term exclusions either

We deliver “authentic therapeutic education”

“Person-centred curriculum seeks to identify unique gifts of each pupil and encourages individualised learning”
(Goldsmiths, University of London)

We provide inclusive schools

where SEMH and ASC pupils are taught together in an inclusive environment, with genuine pupil/parent/staff voice and participation.

School life without labels - the only labels we tolerate are positive, we see our pupils as talented young leaders

We transform lives

“Highly effective in transforming the lives of pupils, educationally, emotionally and socially”
(Goldsmiths, University of London)

Set in the village of Dilton Marsh in rural Wiltshire, Fairfield Farm College is a Specialist College for students with SEND. The 26-acre farm site hosts a variety of day, residential and flexible respite breaks and was rated 'Good' by OFSTED and CQC in our last inspections.

Fairfield Farm College provides students with a safe and stimulating learning environment, where they can gain essential skills to support their transition to adulthood. Study programmes are undertaken from the age of 16. Flexible residential programmes are delivered in one of our houses, a few minutes stroll from the College.

The College boasts a variety of well-resourced teaching and vocational learning areas, where students can work in real life environments. On the premises there is a Café, Farm Shop, Post Office, Conference Venue, commercial kitchen, reception area as well as a Café and Animal Park on the outskirts of Trowbridge.

Students follow an externally accredited employability programme, developing skills in Enterprise, Farming, Animal Management, Horse Studies and Horticulture. All students study English, Maths, IT, Sports and Independence Skills through the I-Curriculum. The commercial areas provide work-based learning in our cafés, catering kitchens, retail and customer services areas, as well as external work experiences through our local partnerships with employers.

We pride ourselves on our Advice and Guidance to support transition to adulthood. This is readily available from our Careers Lead, Job Coaches and through our partnerships.

Whilst at the College, students can enjoy their own common room with leisure and IT facilities, a multi-use games area, gym, a variety of extracurricular activities and events as well as our popular Youth Club and Holiday Workshops. We host a variety of student events throughout the year such as the Summer Ball, culminating in a Graduation Ceremony for our leavers.

The College is a Registered Charity and forms part of Fairfield Farm Trust.

Kisimul School is one of the UK's leading independent special schools, offering a homely and safe environment for children and young people who have severe learning difficulties and autism and display behaviours that challenge.

Kisimul School offers day and residential education, alongside care and leisure programmes for up to 52 weeks of the year. The school is registered with the Department for Education and Ofsted for pupils aged 8 to 19 years.

The name Kisimul, pronounced 'kishmul', was taken from Kisimul Castle, which overlooks one of the safest harbours in the British Isles. Like its namesake, Kisimul School offers a safe haven, providing care and protection for its pupils, whilst preparing them for the journey ahead into adulthood.

The original Kisimul School was founded in 1977, in a comfortable Georgian house (known today as the Old Vicarage) set in four acres within the small Lincolnshire village of Swinderby. Facilities at the Old Vicarage include an indoor heated swimming pool, large playground, soft play areas with ball pool and multi-sensory rooms for relaxation and stimulation.

In 2003, the school expanded to an additional site, Acacia Hall, offering the same standard of exceptional care and education, adapted and utilised in a way to reflect the older age group. Acacia Hall offers riding stables, an adventure playground, collection of small farm animals and an area dedicated to horticulture.

Kisimul School opened an additional school, Woodstock House, in Long Ditton, Surrey in April 2008. Again, Woodstock House offers the same quality of care and education for pupils aged 8 to 19 years. Kisimul School has developed this site to be a mirror image of its existing school operations, using the same teaching methods and ethos.

Kisimul School's mission is to continuously strive for excellence in the care and education of its pupils, with a vision to have the best assisted living environment. The school provides a caring, consistent, safe and supportive environment in which its young people can flourish and develop their skills, in order to fully realise their potential.

Residential and school staff work closely together to enable the pupils to progress in their personal development and learning. The 24-hour approach to the curriculum incorporates a wide range of activities that enrich the learning experiences of all pupils, helping them to learn to communicate and cooperate more effectively with others. In turn, this enables them to grow in confidence, self-esteem and independence.

The highly structured school curriculum aims to address the very specific needs of our pupils, by providing every opportunity for them to enjoy their education and develop their skills, knowledge and understanding.

Classes are small and matched to learning profiles, alongside the dynamics of peers. A high staffing ratio reflects the complex needs of learners.

The curriculum incorporates aspects of the National Curriculum and an accreditation based vocational learning model for older pupils. An integrated therapeutic approach including; psychology, speech and language, music therapy and occupational therapy is part of the core provision of the school.

A key priority for Kisimul is to develop our children and young people's communication skills. Since many are pre-verbal, we teach the alternative and augmentative systems of Makaton signing and the Picture Exchange Communication System (PECS), alongside vocalisations and speech.

External accreditation is gained through a wide variety of ASDAN 'Towards Independence' programmes and the Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme.

Kisimul School works closely with the parents, carers and professionals from its placing authorities to ensure the highest possible standards of care and education. Kisimul School is committed to the view that all people are entitled to equality of opportunity regardless of ability, disability, sex, age, status, religion, belief, nationality, ethnic origins or sexual orientation.

Abingdon House School is an independent day school for pupils aged from 7 to 19 with specific learning difficulties such as dyslexia, dyspraxia and ADD/ADHD, autistic spectrum condition, social communication difficulties and other associated needs.

The teaching and integrated therapy at Abingdon House School focuses on supporting the challenges faced by students with Special Educational Needs, such as working memory, processing speed, executive functioning, sensory processing, social communication needs, as well as the impact these may have on a student's confidence and self esteem.

The school provides a warm, nurturing and aspirational learning environment where the specific individual learning needs of students are fully supported in a mainstream-style environment.

At Abingdon House School we provide an integrated, whole-school multidisciplinary approach to meeting the needs of students with unique learning profiles based on understanding a child's individual needs, nurturing their academic and social development and caring for their wellbeing.

The Moat School is an Independent School for pupils aged 9-18 that is mainstream in structure and specialist in nature.

Children with dyslexia have difficulty in reading, writing, spelling and sometimes numeracy. They often experience difficulties with time concepts, spatial awareness, physical co-ordination, organisation and social interaction. Without specialist help many dyslexic children fall rapidly behind their peer group; they under-achieve and their prospects in life are severely impaired.

Unsuccessful experiences and results in mainstream schools often mean that a specialist intensive learning environment is the best setting. At The Moat School, we recognise that SpLD learners often face great difficulties closing the gap between their potential and their performance. Therefore, every aspect of the education provided is designed to support pupils whilst they meet the challenge of bridging this gap.

Founded in 1939, More House School is an independent day and boarding school with more than 480 boys on roll, making it the largest specialist school of its type in the country. Many boys travel long distances to attend the school, which is currently used for placements by 30 local authorities.

We are dedicated to helping boys with a range of learning difficulties and styles, who require a small, supportive learning environment in which to flourish.

Our aim is to help each boy who joins us, achieve, in the widest possible sense, more than he, or his parents, ever expected. This is accomplished by knowing a great deal about each student – his strengths as well as his difficulties. For his strengths, he must first be helped to identify them and, eventually, change them into a marketable form. His difficulties will not be static. We are mindful that we must be alert to changes caused by a student's own development, those of society and by the curriculum and make sure that each of our students is equipped to meet them.

The Learning Development Centre (LDC) is a purpose-built area, housed centrally in the school, where all therapy is delivered by fully qualified therapists and specialist tutors. Almost all boys in the school attend lessons weekly for between 2 and 8 half hour sessions, with support continuing through GCSE and A level year where necessary. Attendance in the LDC forms part of each boy's timetable, removing any need to miss lessons.

The work of the Learning Development Centre is fully integrated into school life, with many staff being form tutors and mentors. The pooling of shared expertise within the inclusive staff body of the school – highly qualified Speech and Language Therapists, Occupational Therapists, Literacy Therapists, Numeracy Therapists, Cognitive Behavioural Therapists, Adolescent Psychotherapeutic Counsellor, as well as classroom subject specialist teachers experienced in supporting pupils with a broad range of learning difficulties.

Our recent Ofsted welfare inspection graded us Outstanding across all areas, stating "the residential special school provides highly effective services that consistently exceed the standards of good. The actions of the school contribute to significantly improved outcomes and positive experiences for children and young people".

More House School is a transformative experience for students and their families, our students' journey's will vary hugely from that of their mainstream peer group, but the end result will be the same. Academic success and a platform with which to move on to the next stage of their lives.

St. John's is a non-maintained residential special school and independent specialist college with residential houses, working with learners who have complex learning disabilities; including some learners who may have difficulties resulting from Autistic Spectrum Conditions, Asperger's Syndrome, Pathological Demand Avoidance Syndrome and others.

St. John's is a place where learning is shaped around your hopes and aspirations; where our courses are tailored to meet your goals and where you are supported by a highly skilled staff team who respect your choices and lifestyle.

St. John's innovative curriculum provides a full range of exciting, challenging and meaningful learning experiences (both accredited and non-accredited) that prepare each learner with relevant vocational and personal skills that will significantly impact on their future lives.

Our focus on vocational skills is carried out through real, work based learning, which allows our learners to work within and support the services and functions of our organisation, our own enterprises and community work experience placements.

Maths, English, Communications and ICT are embedded or are timetabled sessions along with PSHE, sport, termly options and community access.

Learners at St. John's have access to a variety of vibrant and age appropriate learning environments that reflect their needs. These include: our cafés providing real work experience, theatre for performing arts, fully equipped music and recording studio, construction workshop, community printing enterprise, IT and project hub and sensory areas.

Throughout their journey at St. John's learners are supported by our qualified and experienced Wellbeing team, who provide communication therapy, occupational therapy, behaviour support, nursing and counselling.

We also have a dedicated transitions team who support learners in visiting potential services for their future lives. The team works closely with the Wellbeing team in preparing learners for life beyond St. John's.

St Joseph's Specialist Trust is recognised by Ofsted as an "Outstanding" well established day school and Children's Home providing care over 52 weeks of the year for children and young people with special needs from ages 5 to 19 years.

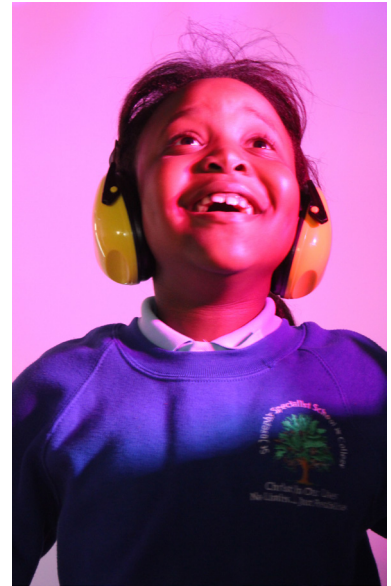

Currently with 73% of students on the Autistic Spectrum we also specialise in a range of complex needs including Speech & Language difficulties, severe learning difficulties, social communication disorders and challenging behaviours. Autism Accredited by the National Autistic Society, St Joseph's is a proven solution for both families and Local Authorities seeking the next step for education, care and therapy.

With Specialisms in Communication Interaction and the Creative Arts, we offer tailor made teaching and learning styles, environment, therapies, and professional standards to meet all the needs of ASD students through personalised learning programmes based on an integrated curriculum, functional communication, visual structure and positive behaviour management. These programmes incorporate a number of methods recognised for working with ASD students: TEACHH, Intensive Interaction, PECS, Social Stories and Makaton signing and symbols. By focusing on learning and behavioural needs, as well as personal preferences, enabling a truly bespoke and personalised approach is taken to ensure success. Information is carefully gathered from a wide range of sources including: the Education Health Care Plan; the diagnosis; developmental history; educational records and assessments; medical records; parents, care staff and observations.

The school is situated close to Cranleigh Village, which retains a great sense of 'community' with a range of amenities including a Leisure Centre, library, shops, cafes, Arts Centre, churches, sports and social clubs. With good transport links to both Horsham and Guildford where more leisure and social facilities including cinemas, theatre and indoor bowling can be found. The school is an active member of the local community and all students are encouraged to take an active part in community life, to maximise their potential and engage with local people.

Strong leadership, teaching, care and therapeutic intervention combine to deliver positive outcomes to meet high expectation and aspirations of both students and families. A calming environment takes into account a wide variety of complex sensory issues and uses a variety of techniques – photographs, symbols and visual clues – children feel comfortable in their surroundings and cope easily with daily routines.

We specifically adapt the curriculum to meet each child's individual needs and focus on the development of personal social and communication along with independent living skills, especially for those aged 16+ years.

By maintaining routines within a structured environment and promoting functional communication we enable students to stay motivated, maximise their potential and work towards positive learning outcomes, whilst seeing a reduction in both anxiety and challenging behaviours.

Therapies

We have our own dedicated team of integrated therapists who work within both class and residential settings to enhance and complement the education and care of all students. Our Director of Therapies co-ordinates and leads a department which includes Speech and Language, Occupational Therapy, Music, Arts, Equine and Drama.

We believe communication underpins successful learning, self-esteem, positive behaviour and opportunities for life. All students are assessed and a therapy programme devised based on their individual needs. To ensure learning is transferred to real life situations, our therapists accompany our children and young people into the community on a regular basis to access local facilities and activities.

Residential Options

Registered as a Children's Home, we provide care, education and therapies for up to 52 weeks a year. We can offer a variety of residential options to meet the needs of Local Authorities, students and families, ranging from weekly boarding to 52 week placements.

We offer an environment where each student is supported and able to develop the skills needed to maximise personal independence. Each residential house is staffed on an individual basis and well equipped to provide a homely atmosphere. Our last Ofsted Inspection rated the Children's home as "Good". By maintaining a waking day curriculum we believe our students benefit greatly from a consistency of approach.

Fully integrated into our community we ensure all our students' skills are transferred and managed in realistic settings and reflects their levels of need. A Speech and Language therapist also regularly visits all the residential groups to ensure consistency across the waking day.

Supported Living

We also provide Supported Living for young people aged 19+. Springvale in Cranleigh and Long Barn in Beare Green offer accommodation for adults with learning difficulties where each young person has their own tenancy and is supported by a tailored individual support package reflecting their own lifestyle choices and activities.

A specialist residential school offering flexible education and care, principally as a 52-week service with limited capacity for day placements, for young people aged 8-19, all of whom have complex needs including behaviour that may challenge and a learning disability, often in association with autism.

Fullerton House School is situated in the heart of the village of Denaby Main, near Doncaster. Its central location provides easy access by road, rail or air. Our mission is to enhance the lives of the young people entrusted to us by focusing on their specific needs, capabilities and aspirations.

Education: Each person has a carefully

designed Individual Learning Plan based on their EHCP as well as their specific needs in line with the National Curriculum, which supports their positive progress in a range of areas.

Extended learning: During evenings, weekends and school holidays a wide range of extra-curricular activities are on offer to ensure that people are fully engaged with stimulating and meaningful experiences both on and off-site.

Professional services: A dedicated on-site team including carers, teachers, tutors, communication, behaviour and occupational therapy, psychology and other specialists ensure that people have ready access to the services they require.

High-quality accommodation: Single person and small group occupancy of high-quality accommodation is provided at Fullerton House School. Each person has their own bedroom, the majority of which have en-suite bathrooms. We also have a range of on-site facilities to complement and enrich the lives of those who come to live and learn with us.

Keeping in contact: We understand that while we may offer a very positive option for the person, we may not be on your doorstep. Keeping in touch with loved ones is essential. Everyone has a plan to support optimum contact with family/carers and friends whether this be by phone, letter, email or Skype.

The Limes Capacity: 12

The Paddocks Capacity: 8

Fees per annum: On request

Our young adult services offer flexible education care and support for up to 52 weeks per year for young people aged 18-25, who have complex needs including behaviour that may challenge and a learning disability, often in association with autism.

At The Paddocks, everyone lives within a beautiful rural setting with ready community access and at The Limes in the heart of the community, in an urban setting with many local facilities including a sports centre, restaurants and shops.

Mission

We have 2 pathways available for the young people attending college.

Formal Education Pathway with a focus on gaining educational qualifications, skills and experience to move on to employment opportunity and further independence in their lives.

Next Steps Pathway for young people who have completed their formal educational route and are now wishing to build vocational and independence skills for life style experience and development-including social enterprise work.

Both pathways offer accreditation in the skills and qualifications the young people achieve, but the journeys are varied and personalised to the young persons needs and outcomes at this significant life stage.

Education: Everybody has a highly personalised programme of learning, equipping them with skills they will need for adult life.

Extended learning: During evenings, weekends and college holidays a wide range of extra-curricular activities are on offer to ensure people are fully engaged with stimulating experiences both on and off site providing further, meaningful

learning opportunities.

Professional services: A dedicated multi-disciplinary therapeutic team including college tutors, college support workers, consultant clinical psychologist, consultant psychiatrist, applied behaviour analysts, speech and language therapists, occupational therapists, registered manager, care and support staff work together to support each individual's progress.

High quality accommodation: College accommodation includes individualised bedrooms, quality living spaces that promote independence and progressive skills development assisted by the appropriate use of specialist/adaptive technology. We also have a range of on-site and off-site facilities that offer progressive learning opportunities for young people with a range of needs and wishes.

Keeping in contact: We work to develop relationships between staff and families that are strong, positive and mutually respectful. People are supported to be in contact with their friends and family; we welcome visits to the colleges at any time. Everyone has a plan that will include the best means for them to maintain this contact whether by 'phone, letter, email or Skype.

A specialist residential school offering flexible education and care, principally as a 52-week service with limited capacity for day placements, for young people aged 11-19, all of whom have complex needs including behaviour that may challenge and a learning disability, often in association with autism.

Wilsic Hall School is situated in its own 14-acre site approximately five miles south of Doncaster. Its central location provides easy access by road, rail or air. Our mission is to enhance the lives of the people entrusted to us by focusing on their specific needs, capabilities and aspirations.

Education: Each person has a carefully designed Individual Education Plan based on their specific needs in line with the National Curriculum, which supports their positive progress in a range of areas.

Extended learning: During evenings, weekends and school holidays a wide range of extra-curricular activities are on offer to ensure that people are fully engaged with stimulating and meaningful experiences both on and off-site.

Professional services: A dedicated team including carers, teachers, tutors, behaviour, communication and occupational therapy, psychology and other specialists ensure that each person has ready access to the services they require.

High-quality accommodation: Single person and small group occupancy of high-quality accommodation is provided at Wilsic Hall School. Each person has their own bedroom, the majority of which have en-suite bathrooms. We also have a range of on-site facilities to complement and enrich the lives of those who come to live and learn with us.

Keeping in contact: We understand that while we may offer a very positive option for the person, we may not be on your doorstep. Keeping in touch with loved ones is essential. Everyone has a plan to support optimum contact with family/carers and friends whether this be by phone, letter, email or Skype.

Pace is a family centred school that specialises in educating children with Cerebral Palsy and related disorders. Pace provides an innovative education tailored to the child or young person's individual abilities that is centred around pertinent and personalised academic and functional goals. Due to the complex nature of many Pace children and young people, Pace also has an onsite nursing team.

Our unique Pace approach brings together input from paediatric occupational therapists, physiotherapists, speech and language therapists, conductive educationalists and teachers. This breadth of expertise means the "whole child" remains at the centre of their education. At Pace we believe in every child's ability to achieve and progress, and it is our job to ensure that the children and young people at Pace have the right skills to do just that.

A bespoke curriculum is developed for each individual, at a 'just right level' to ensure they are challenged and make progress functionally and academically. The Pace Integrated Curriculum is broad, deep and rich, and the range of methodology in the Pace toolkit for delivery adds real value to the individual learning experience. This is evident in the children's progress both academically and in relation to social, physical, communication, and functional independence skills.

Pace School is a positive and nurturing environment that empowers pupils to demonstrate knowledge, access and engage in their education, however they communicate. We celebrate success with the children, their class and with you. We use recognised achievement as a powerful motivational tool, further empowering the individual learner in their personal journey towards achieving their goals.

Early Years Foundation Stage

We offer an Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) provision for children aged 2-5 where early therapeutic intervention is combined with the EYFS Curriculum, to provide a unique approach for EYFS children with sensory motor challenges. Focusing on the development of fundamental skills the children need to access and engage with their education in this critical early window of development.

Primary School

Our school groups cater for a range of both physical and cognitive abilities from very complex challenges relating to their sensory motor challenges, to children who have mild to moderate physical difficulties. Pace caters for children and young people with a full range of learning abilities, ranging from a pre-formal level for those with learning difficulties to those individuals who are accessing the curriculum at or near an age appropriate level.

Secondary School

In Key Stages three and four, the integrated curriculum focus shifts to prioritise functional and life skills to help prepare these young people for their future lives as adults in the community. Regular opportunities to develop and apply their problem solving and academic skills are offered throughout the week, for example through purposeful trips to the supermarket followed by cooking activities, which have been carefully planned to work on gross/fine motor and mathematical skills.

When asked in a recent survey, 100% of Pace parents who took part reported that they would recommend Pace to other parents. One said "Yes – wholeheartedly, without question. Without a doubt. We love you all. G loves you all and feels safe & happy at school. We feel G is pushed to his full potential and encouraged to achieve above and beyond."

If you would like to organise a tour of Pace Primary or Secondary or would like to speak to one of our team, please call 01269 392739 or visit thepacecentre.org/pace-school.

Chailey Heritage School, part of Chailey Heritage Foundation, is a non-maintained special school for children and young people aged 3-19 with complex physical disabilities and health needs. Chailey Heritage School was judged to be 'Outstanding' by Ofsted in October 2014 for a third consecutive time. Chailey Heritage Residential is a registered children's home and offers flexible care packages from short breaks to 52 weeks of the year.

Meeting Children's Health and Therapy Needs

Chailey Heritage School has a unique on-site partnership with Chailey Clinical Services, part of Sussex Community NHS Foundation Trust. The pupils' health and therapy needs are met by a highly skilled team that includes Paediatric Medical Consultants and Doctors, Therapists, residential Nursing team and Rehabilitation Engineers, as well as our expert teachers.

Purposeful Learning

Chailey Heritage School has developed its own curriculum driven by the individual learner's needs, skills and desired outcomes. It is meaningful to each child and their family as it covers all aspects of their development and it weighs up the input that is needed specifically for them.

Support for Parents and Families at Every Step

We work with parents and families at each point of their Chailey Heritage Foundation journey by providing support at difficult times whilst also celebrating achievements together.

Chailey Heritage Residential

Chailey Heritage Residential is a nationally recognised, registered children's home for 3 to 19 year olds with complex physical disabilities and health needs. We offer flexible residential provision ranging from short breaks to 52 weeks a year.

Residential and day non-maintained special school and college for children and young people aged 7-19 who have a range of special educational needs and disabilities, including speech language and communication difficulties, autism, learning difficulties and associated complex needs.

St Mary's School and College is a safe and supportive environment in which children and young people live and learn together. Our focus is on ensuring all of our students leave us as well prepared as possible for life beyond school and college.

The school at St Mary's is for pupils in Key Stages 2, 3 and 4. We follow the National Curriculum but adapt it according to a child's needs. We are sometimes able to admit pupils in KS1, depending on the local arrangements made with the placing LA and the DfE.

In the college, pupils become increasingly independent and confident. At Key Stage 4 and in college, students choose subjects they wish to study from a broad selection and leave us with a range of qualifications including GCSE, BTEC, Entry Level and other relevant Level 1 and 2 awards. The Aspire Vocational Centre offers our students a flexible learning facility that can provide work related learning experiences.

Our onsite therapy and health professionals work in partnership with our education and residential staff to provide integrated support and intervention.

St Mary's has excellent residential facilities onsite. We operate two houses that are organised to take account of individual needs. We also offer extended day, overnight respite or short stay opportunities for day students.

Call us on 01424 730740, email our administration team at: admin@stmarysbexhill.org and once we have taken some initial details, one of our senior leaders will call you back to find out a little more about your situation and to arrange a visit.

At The Children's Trust School our aim is to provide high quality education and expertise to meet each pupil's individual special educational needs and to celebrate all achievements in a happy, secure environment.

As a non-maintained special school for 2-19 year olds, we pride ourselves on seeing the 'whole' child and delivering education, health and care for children and young people with complex needs in an integrated and holistic approach.

Through day and residential placements (of up to 52 weeks) we focus on personalised planning, supporting pupils to improve and develop understanding of the world around them and their functional skills.

We have a skilled team of teachers, classroom and care support staff, and nursing and medical staff. We also have an extensive team of therapists, ranging from occupational, physio and speech and language to play, leisure and music therapists.

Our school curriculum focuses on communication, language and literacy, fine and gross motor physical skills, environmental control technology, social, emotional and personal wellbeing and cognitive development.

We are also now able to offer education, care and therapy to children from the age of 2 through our newly opened nursery, Tadworth Tots. Offering morning and afternoon sessions, our early years pupils are offered successful and meaningful learning, shaped by the Early Years Foundation Stage. Alongside our nursery, we also offer Taddies, a weekly run parent and child group for children aged 0-5 years old who have additional needs.

We provide stimulating educational opportunities, supported by unparalleled expertise delivering significant outcomes for our pupils.

St John's Catholic School is a centre of excellence for sensory and communication needs for pupils aged 4-19. It is a school where spoken language is used, and where every young person communicates equally and successfully with others. We encourage and nurture ambition, self-esteem and confidence in all pupils.

The school offers a broad and balanced curriculum offering the opportunity to take GCSEs, entry level qualifications and a wide range of vocational courses. Older pupils attend the well-established sixth form, where courses are hosted in local FE colleges and pupils are supported by qualified and experienced learning mentors. We accept day and weekly boarding pupils, and welcome pupils of all faiths and denominations.

Specialist facilities

All pupils are taught by teachers with additional qualifications and a range of specialisms including hearing and language impairment, autism, learning difficulties and dyslexia. The school classrooms are acoustically treated and benefit from Soundfield technology. There is a resident audiologist and health and medical needs are coordinated by the school nurse and supported by a programme of personal, social and health education. There are strong links with the local child and adolescent mental health team who specialise in working with deaf young people.

We have a team of highly specialised speech and language therapists who deliver both individual and group therapy sessions to all pupils. The therapists work with staff across the whole school and maintain close contact with parents, so everyone is clear how to maximise pupils' progress.

Primary

Teaching is tailored to pupils' individual needs by specialist teachers and a broad and imaginative curriculum inspires creative and enthusiastic learners. Indoor and outdoor zones provide a vibrant learning environment, and there are sensory and soft play rooms for sensory integration. Primary pupils enjoy regular learning and social opportunities at neighbouring schools and take part in an extensive programme of enrichment activities.

Secondary

There is a high level of personalisation in the curriculum for secondary pupils and a range of subjects can be studied at different levels, from entry level to GCSEs and their equivalent. The development of literacy and numeracy is a key priority, and this is achieved through intensive specialist teaching in small classes. As well as traditional academic subjects, our curriculum provides a strong focus on creative and practical subjects that develop social communication and other essential skills for future adult life.

Sixth form

The sixth form offers our students the opportunity to study a wide range of academic and vocational courses linked to two local colleges. Students have full time support from learning mentors who are all trained to support the communication needs and learning of our students. Linking with mainstream colleges helps students build wider friendship groups and offers new social opportunities.

The sixth form residential setting provides a full life-skills programme which is accessible for young people with a range of additional needs such as visual impairments. By the end of their time at St John's, students have well-developed independence skills for adult life.

Curriculum

The curriculum is organised with a focus on personal development and outdoor learning is a key aspect of our pupils' learning experiences. Our careers programme is designed to expand young people's knowledge of the world and raise their aspirations. These young people are supported by expert staff, and learning concentrates on presenting meaningful experiences that avoid sensory overload. Communication systems are built around the child's preferences, including PECs (Picture Exchange Communication system), Makaton, hand over hand signing and computer aided systems.

Boarding facilities

The residential areas are homely and welcoming. Young people who board live in small family units and are looked after by an experienced and knowledgeable staff team, who help them to form positive relationships and develop negotiation and co-operation skills. There is a full programme of leisure activities, and children have the opportunity to participate in local clubs and sports societies. The school offers weekly or flexiboarding, and all students go home every weekend. In 2019 our residential care was rated as 'Outstanding' by Ofsted.

Home school links

Very close links with families are maintained, with updates on progress and achievements through frequent emails and phone calls home. Parents are always welcome to visit the school, and are kept up to date with activities by the half termly newsletter.

General environment

The school is within walking distance of the elegant and vibrant Georgian village of Boston Spa, where there are shops, cafés and parks. The extensive buildings are well-equipped and include a gym with specialist fitness equipment, a purpose built theatre and sound recording room, a fully stocked library, an IT suite and a number of sensory rooms. The grounds are perfect for sports and leisure activities, with marked pitches, a hard surface multi-sport area and a newly-developed sensory garden.

Treloar School and College provides outstanding education, care, therapy and independence training to physically disabled children and young people from age 2 to 25 years. Provision is both day and residential and students come from across the UK and overseas. Both our educational and residential School provision are rated Outstanding by Ofsted (School 2018/ Residential 2019). Our College, based on the same site, offers continued education and care up to the age of 25 and has also been rated Outstanding by Ofsted (2017). At Treloar's we prepare students for life after they leave and equip them with the confidence, independence skills and the academic or vocational qualifications they require.

There are on-site nurses and a GP service as well as occupational therapists, speech and language therapists and physiotherapists. There are also visual impairment and assistive technology specialists plus dieticians and specialist counsellors on-site. Therapy is integrated into the school day to maximise opportunities for learning. Our transition team works with each student from assessment through to their destination to help them reach their goals and aspirations.

Entry Requirement

A student assessment will include consideration of education, medical, therapy and care staff needs. Each student's programme is constructed to ensure their individual needs are met. Part-time placements, limited time placements and respite for day students are all available.

Life on Campus

Treloar's is situated in beautiful East Hampshire on the edge of Alton with a good road and rail network. We ensure a varied range of extra-curricular activities including sports, art, drama, clubs and visits off-site using our own specialist fleet of vehicles. On-site facilities include a swimming pool, all weather sports facilities, wheelchair race track, boccia court, hydrotherapy pool, rebound therapy room, print enterprise, sensory garden and social club.

The Royal Blind School is run by Scotland's largest visual impairment charity, Royal Blind, and is regulated by Education Scotland and the Care Inspectorate. We are a grant-aided special school supported by the Scottish Government. The school, situated in Morningside, Edinburgh, is Scotland's only residential school specialising in the care and education of children and young people with visual impairments, including those with complex needs.

We enrol pupils from P1 to S6 and places are paid for through fees from local authorities or privately. We offer 52-week residential or term-time boarding, as well as nightly and weekly boarding. Our residential houses are fully accessible and designed to be a home from home.

Each child follows an individualised education programme underpinned by the Curriculum for Excellence and Getting it Right for Every Child (GIRFEC). We deliver a broad general education and offer qualifications and accreditation by the Scottish Qualifications Authority (SQA), Junior Awards Scheme Scotland, Personal Achievement Awards and ASDAN in the senior phase.

Our approach is inclusive and pupil-centred, providing many opportunities for experience and achievement. We strive to make learning fun, challenging and self-affirming.

We deliver independent living skills, building self-confidence and self-esteem by providing a greater awareness of the wider environment through mobility and orientation to ensure that all pupils become as independent as possible.

For more information, and to read our application pack, please visit our website www.royalblind.org/education. If you have any questions, please email office@royalblindschool.org.uk or call us on 0131 446 3120.

HESLEY
TO HELP
MYSELF.

We're one of the UK's leading independent providers of residential services, schools and colleges supporting people with autism and complex needs.

Our highly trained staff provide the highest quality, person-centred approach. Giving those who use our services the support, skills and tools they need to be as independent as possible.

Our unique Hesley Enhancing Lives Programme (HELP) is a big part of this.

Combining the latest techniques and practices, HELP is our successful value-based positive behaviour support programme. Based on the principles of Therapeutic Crisis Intervention which is accredited by the British Institute of Learning Disabilities, HELP reduces the need for high-risk interventions by taking an empathic and proactive approach. We focus on how our actions can positively shape the emotional well-being of all those who use our services. It's why all our staff are given HELP training to make sure it works in practice as well as theory.

Find out more about our schools and colleges visit www.hesleygroup.co.uk or call 0800 0556789.

Established in 1975, Hesley Group, through its schools and colleges support 8 to 25 year olds with a highly experienced and expert multidisciplinary educational, care and therapeutic staff resource, in high quality purpose built settings. We're focused on positive outcomes and progress towards sustainable independence.

Create Service
Personalised Therapeutic Education

TCES Group provides education solutions for pupils aged 7-19 years with Social, Emotional or Mental Health needs (SEMH) or Autism Spectrum Condition (ASC) and complex co-morbid needs. Our integrated approach to education and therapy takes each pupil on a journey of change that encourages a love of learning. We will find an education solution for every child – including:

Day School Provision For pupils able to integrate easily into a small group learning environment. The pupil would be supported by our Team Around the Child approach.

Create Service A therapeutic education programme that runs parallel to our schools. We meet the needs of the most high risk, complex and vulnerable pupils who are not yet ready to succeed in formal small group learning environments. Through our Journey of Change model we help pupils step down into a school setting.

Home Learning Planned and delivered by specialist staff, the programme pays close attention to individual pupil needs, adjusting the balance between academic, therapeutic, wellbeing and safeguarding support based on expert needs assessment.

The academic element of the curriculum can be delivered online nationally, or as one-to-one home tuition in certain circumstances.

We never give up

20 years, 3000 pupils, no permanent exclusions - now, no fixed term exclusions either

We deliver “authentic therapeutic education”

“Person-centred curriculum seeks to identify unique gifts of each pupil and encourages individualised learning”
(Goldsmiths, University of London)

We provide inclusive schools

where SEMH and ASC pupils are taught together in an inclusive environment, with genuine pupil/parent/staff voice and participation.

School life without labels - the only labels we tolerate are positive, we see our pupils as talented young leaders

We transform lives

“Highly effective in transforming the lives of pupils, educationally, emotionally and socially”
(Goldsmiths, University of London)

HESLEY
TO HELP
MYSELF.

We're one of the UK's leading independent providers of residential services, schools and colleges supporting people with autism and complex needs.

Our highly trained staff provide the highest quality, person-centred approach. Giving those who use our services the support, skills and tools they need to be as independent as possible.

Our unique Hesley Enhancing Lives Programme (HELP) is a big part of this.

Combining the latest techniques and practices, HELP is our successful value-based positive behaviour support programme. Based on the principles of Therapeutic Crisis Intervention which is accredited by the British Institute of Learning Disabilities, HELP reduces the need for high-risk interventions by taking an empathic and proactive approach. We focus on how our actions can positively shape the emotional well-being of all those who use our services. It's why all our staff are given HELP training to make sure it works in practice as well as theory.

Find out more about our schools and colleges visit www.hesleygroup.co.uk or call 0800 0556789.

Established in 1975, Hesley Group, through its schools and colleges support 8 to 25 year olds with a highly experienced and expert multidisciplinary educational, care and therapeutic staff resource, in high quality purpose built settings. We're focused on positive outcomes and progress towards sustainable independence.

Create Service
Personalised Therapeutic Education

TCES Group provides education solutions for pupils aged 7-19 years with Social, Emotional or Mental Health needs (SEMH) or Autism Spectrum Condition (ASC) and complex co-morbid needs. Our integrated approach to education and therapy takes each pupil on a journey of change that encourages a love of learning. We will find an education solution for every child – including:

Day School Provision For pupils able to integrate easily into a small group learning environment. The pupil would be supported by our Team Around the Child approach.

Create Service A therapeutic education programme that runs parallel to our schools. We meet the needs of the most high risk, complex and vulnerable pupils who are not yet ready to succeed in formal small group learning environments. Through our Journey of Change model we help pupils step down into a school setting.

Home Learning Planned and delivered by specialist staff, the programme pays close attention to individual pupil needs, adjusting the balance between academic, therapeutic, wellbeing and safeguarding support based on expert needs assessment.

The academic element of the curriculum can be delivered online nationally, or as one-to-one home tuition in certain circumstances.

We never give up

20 years, 3000 pupils, no permanent exclusions - now, no fixed term exclusions either

We deliver “authentic therapeutic education”

“Person-centred curriculum seeks to identify unique gifts of each pupil and encourages individualised learning”
(Goldsmiths, University of London)

We provide inclusive schools

where SEMH and ASC pupils are taught together in an inclusive environment, with genuine pupil/parent/staff voice and participation.

School life without labels - the only labels we tolerate are positive, we see our pupils as talented young leaders

We transform lives

“Highly effective in transforming the lives of pupils, educationally, emotionally and socially”
(Goldsmiths, University of London)

BIBIC helps children with a disability or learning difficulty caused by conditions such as cerebral palsy, Down's syndrome and other genetic disorders; acquired brain injury caused by trauma or illness; and developmental disorders such as autism, ADHD, Asperger syndrome and dyspraxia.

All children are assessed by a multi-professional team who put together a report and a therapy plan that is taught to the family by the child's key worker. This provides support for the family to learn about their child and how they can make a positive difference to their development. Sections of the plan are designed to be shared with the child's school and social groups to ensure a consistent approach in areas such as communication, behaviour and learning. Families return on a regular basis for reassessments and updated therapy programmes.

Mind (the National Association for Mental Health) is the leading mental health charity in England and Wales. Mind works for a better life for everyone with experience of mental or emotional stress. It does this by: advancing the views, needs and ambitions of people experiencing mental distress; promoting inclusion and challenging discrimination; influencing policy through effective campaigning and education; providing quality services that meet the expressed needs of people experiencing mental distress and which reflect the requirements of a diverse community; achieving equal legal and civil rights through campaigning and education.

With over 60 years of experience, Mind is a major national network consisting of over 200 local Mind associations, which cover most major towns and rural areas in England and Wales. These are separately registered charities operating under the Mind brand. The Mind network is the largest charitable provider of mental health services in the community. The work of the local associations is strengthened and supported by staff and activities through its many offices in England and Wales. This ensures that, as a national charity, Mind keeps a distinct local perspective to their work.

Mind believes in the individual and equipping them to make informed choices about options open to them. Mind's mental health telephone information service (MindinfoLine) deals with thousands of calls each year. We offer a vital lifeline to people in distress, their relatives and carers, as well as providing mental health information to members of the public, professionals and students.
